City of Carmel wins transient rental law case

By DAVID LELAND

A COUNTY superior court judge has ruled that the city of Carmel has the legal right to prohibit short-term commercial rentals in residential neighborhoods.

The transient rental ordinance, approved by the Carmel City Council in May of 1989, bans rentals of 30 days or less in the R-1 district, and affects about 300 short-term rental homes in the city. Violators face fines of up to $500 a day.

"The restriction seems to be a reasonable means of protecting a residential neighborhood," said Monterey County Superior Court Judge Harkjoon Paik, who referred to the term "primarily residential" contained in the preamble of the city's charter when forming his decision.

The city's point of view has been that rentals of 30 days or less are the same as renting a hotel or motel room, tantamount to a commercial enterprise, which is not allowed in the R-1 district.

The ordinance originated when a group of residents complained to the city that short-term renters were often noisy and disrespectful of Carmel's quiet, residential ambiance.

In ruling for the city, Paik struck down arguments posed by attorneys for the plaintiffs — John Ewing et al — that the law violates their Constitutional right of privacy protected in the 14th Amendment.

"The Constitution does not spell out the right of privacy," said Paik, adding that the state Constitution contained the right to privacy until voters aligned that document with the federal Constitution in adopting Proposition 115 last June. "If there is such a thing as a right of privacy in the Constitution, it does not apply to a landlord-tenant relationship. There appears to be no such animal in existence."

The judge apparently was swayed by noted land-use attorney Daniel J. Curtin, Jr., who told the court that the right of privacy was being used as a misnomer in this instance.

"Those cases protect intimate, private relationships," he said in a brief to the court. "The ordinance does not touch personal rights protected by the 14th Amendment. The right to privacy protected by the 14th Amendment extends to matters relating to marriage, procreation, contraception, family relationships, child-rearing and education."

surveillance."

Paik said the question of enforcement was "not before the court," but could be brought back in a separate case.

'The restriction seems to be a reasonable means of protecting a residential neighborhood.'

— Judge Harkjoon Paik

Carmel City Atty. Don Freeman agreed.

"The only issue before the court was looking at the ordinance on its face," he said. "Was it good or bad?"

Freeman added that Paik had revoked a preliminary injunction so the ordinance has become law.

He added that the plaintiffs may have a difficult time at the appeals court, with former Monterey County Superior Court Judge Nat Agliano now serving on that bench.

'Hopefully the Constitution has not been completely abrogated in Carmel.'

— Tony Lombardo

BUT TONY Lombardo, an attorney for Ewing, told The Pine Cone that he expects the ruling to be overturned at the 6th District Court of Appeals in San Jose.

"Hopefully the Constitution has not been completely abrogated in Carmel," said Lombardo, who will appeal the ruling sometime in September. "I think he (Paik) was mistaken."

Lombardo reiterated that the judge was errant in ruling that private property rights had no part in the decision.

The judge made a "sweeping condemnation of private property rights," he said.

Lombardo questioned how the ordinance could be enforced by the city.

"It seems there are some real flaws," Lombardo said. "The only way you can enforce the ordinance is to interrogate people or conduct

Despite ruling against the city's previous transient ordinance in 1981 because he found it overly restrictive, Agliano acknowledged at the time that Carmel's residential district was rife for some sort of short-term rental regulation.

"It is my belief that they (plaintiffs) will have a hard time overturning this case," Freeman said.

Freeman said the city will enforce the transient rental ordinance on a complaint basis.

"We're not here to beat someone up," he said. "We just want people to comply with the law."

No new staff will be hired to enforce the code, with complaints being handled by city hall officials.

"It's just another ordinance in the city," Freeman said. "We will enforce like we do any other ordinance."

Mrs. Chapman died Aug. 28 at Community Hospital.

'Carmel has lost a great lady' Family and friends bid farewell DOROTHY GREEN Chapman, a resident of Carmel since 1932 and a well-known contributor to the city's community and cultural affairs, died Aug. 28 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 96.

Robert Evans, former Carmel city councilman, knew Mrs. Chapman for more than 20 years and said of her, "She was the greatest woman I've ever known, such an unusual woman. I am going to miss her enormously. Carmel will miss her."

Richard Tyler, former Sunset Center director, had known Mrs. Chapman since he first interviewed for the job 14 years ago when she was a member of the Cultural Commission. They became close personal friends.

"Many Carmelites will remember her warmth and wit with great affection," he wrote in a letter Tuesday. "She will be sorely missed. Carmel has lost a great lady."

Former Carmel mayor Charlotte Townsend said of Mrs. Chapman, "She was a unique personality who enriched the community on many levels. A life-long friend and mentor, she encouraged me to participate in community affairs — showed me the way."

"I called her 'Mrs. C' and the 'C' stood for Carmel," Townsend continued. "She had a marvelous fund of anecdotes and information about early Carmel, and many a dull city council meeting was enlivened by her quiet, pithy and witty comments. She esteemed and encouraged creativity of all kinds. Her friends were legion and from all social strata."

"She surrounded herself with interesting, carefully chosen people, plants, paintings and possessions and her small house (designed by Roland Maiden and winner of the Sunset Award), was always a delight to visit," Townsend said. "A unique and very special lady, she leaves an indelible mark on our community and will be greatly missed."

Mrs. Chapman was born May 22, 1894 in Santa Paula and descended from early California pioneers. Her grandfather, John Griffith Corey, settled in California in the 1860s.

Active throughout her life, her many affiliations and offices included: Carmel Community and Cultural Commission, 1969-1981; Board of Directors, founding member of Carmel Citizens Committee; First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel; Carmel Republican Women's Club; Monterey History and Art Association — Life Member.

Numerous contributions from Mrs. Chapman to the community included: The Chapman Room, a Bates hall-mural, paintings, pottery, trees and plants; native peninsula plants for the Carmel Arboretum and many plants and trees for landscaping Carmel and its parks; and family heirloom furniture given to Stevenson House in Monterey.

Mrs. Chapman is survived by her daughter, Suzanne DeClerque of Carmel, five grandchildren and two great grandsons. Her son, William, died in 1979.

At her request, no services will be held. Cremation has taken place at The Little Chapel by-the-Sea with The Paul Mortuary in charge of arrangements. The family suggests any memorial contributions be sent to First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel or to the Sunset Center.

Cal-Am 16 percent rate hike OK'd, may appear on bills by Oct. 1

By FRANK GEORGE

THE CALIFORNIA American Water Co. will implement a 16-percent annual rate increase in area water bills — possibly as soon as Oct. 1 — due to revenue losses resulting from public rationing efforts.

Cal-Am Vice President Larry Foy said the PUC approved a single year surcharge Aug. 8, which would set the rate increase at 16 percent. Calculated monthly, Foy said the overall average increase of 16 percent amounts to an additional $2.19 on the current average $16.47 per month.

"We think it (the fee hike) will be on the Oct. 1st bill," he said.

Fred Curry, chief of the water utilities branch of the State Public Utilities Commission, said the PUC could stretch the hike out over three years, or 5 percent per year, if enough citizens voice their discontent over the decision.

"If we get a lot of letters of complaint, we will seriously try to convince the company to stretch their recovery out over three years," he said.

Curry explained the PUC sets Cal-Am's rates for a three-year period. The commission could not foresee the decrease in use resulting in a loss of revenue for the utility when they last set the rates in 1988.

Leaders of at least two citizens groups were outraged at the go-ahead for the rate increase.

"I think this will be a very drastic increase for senior citizens on fixed incomes," said Joe Monaghan, president of the Concerned Senior Citizens Club of the Monterey Peninsula.

"I think this is ludicrous," added Pat Bernardi of the Residents Water Committee. "When you look at consumers using less of something, the money should stay in their pockets, because they're doing a public service."

The rate increase also comes at an unfortunate time: the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board approved a 6-percent water bill increase for their rationing program at their regular meeting on Aug. 27.

The district's fee hike also stems from the public's conservation efforts. There is a user fee

A great lady has left us

Dear Editor:

I met Dorothy Green Chapman 14 years ago when I came for an interview for the position of Cultural Director of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea and Mrs. Chapman was a member of the Cultural Commission. I was very proud to become a personal friend and we enjoyed many afternoon talks through the years about early Carmel.

Mrs. Chapman was involved in the city in many ways, and her generosity can be seen throughout the community. Many Carmelites will remember her warmth and wit with great affection. She will be sorely missed. Carmel has lost a great lady.

Switching libraries

Dear Editor:

I agree with recent letters to the editor concerning Harrison Memorial Library.

"Oldtimers" will remember my father, Ralph Winter, who visited the library weekly, always with several (sometimes all), of his seven children in tow. It is a tradition that I continued with my own three children.

The banished children's library and the worthless computerized reference system have made this impossible. Even with the librarians' help, we haven't had much luck with the computers. And my children have been sent back and forth between branches so often (when working on school reports), searching for reference books, that they quit and come home.

I think I'll do as another reader has and try Pacific Grove or Monterey. The extra distance wouldn't be so bad for some satisfactory service.

Help the homeless

Dear Editor:

Recently, a friend said, "I'm tired of the homeless, aren't you? I just wish they didn't have to be so...VISIBLE! But, then, it's summer: what fun it must be to sleep out under the stars!"

This cavalier attitude toward the homeless is shared, I soon discovered, by many of us, the more fortunate citizens of the Monterey Peninsula. However, realizing that, one day, homelessness may come to peninsulans like myself, I am learning more about the meaning of homelessness — who experiences it, and why.

There are two basic categories of homeless people: the visible and the invisible. The visible homeless are people such as those we recently viewed on television, camped in front of San Francisco's City Hall. The other homeless fulfill my friend's ardent wish: to us, they are invisible. These "invisibles" are people who speak like us, dress like us, and move about during the day like us. Many go to work just as we do, and believe in values similar to ones we hold. But in the evening, only we return home. The others find temporary shelter with friends, or go to their own cars, to abandoned buildings, or to community shelters...reappearing among us the next morning.

Although most of the peninsula's homeless remain invisible to us, they are very much in need. To give — or get — help, please dial 899-H-O-P-E for Peninsula Outreach. There, visible or invisible, hope is what we'll give — and get!

Well versed

Dear Editor:

When I first decided to hunker down and expiate my manifold sins in this incredibly splendid Village-in-a-Forest-by-the-Sea, in 1971, I thought the Pine Cone then was even better than it is now, for two reasons: First, there was almost always a beautiful photo on page 1, of the sea pounding surf with white spray or the wonderful Carmel Bay, a curve of white sand complete with swimmers. It could have been aspects of Point Lobos or Big Sur, or anywhere along the rocky coast. All superb!

Second, at that time, there was usually a poem by a local poet, often dealing with Carmel or the ocean. Many of us always watched for the verse and enjoyed the local talent. Suggestion: Why not have a poetry contest. It would give you many names, and create greatly increased interest in your paper.

Soul searching

Dear Editor:

I just finished reading an article in a national paper on the rating system for the movies. The upshot of it was that the "X" rating cost the movie producers a lot of money because of the limiting factor it placed on the minimum age group admitted.

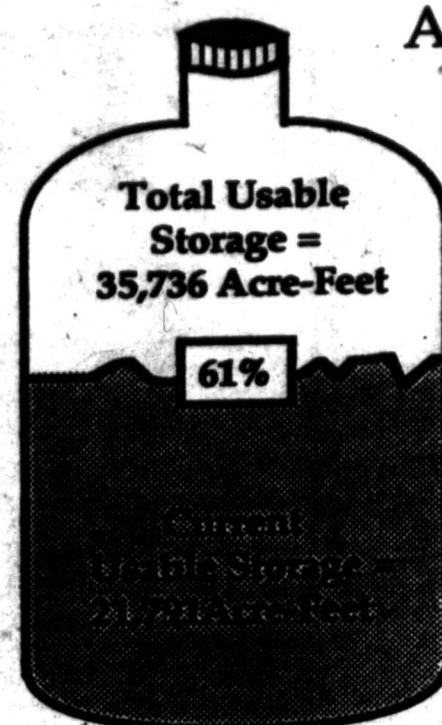

The current atmosphere in society towards violence I'm sure is enhanced by violence-ridden movies. The news too frequently contains accounts of shootings, vicious attacks, and other outrages on innocent citizens, yet any public outcry for some moderation in the stream of mayhem which the TV and movie going public is exposed to is met with whining complaints from libertarians that to restrain this activity would result in censorship and a loss of individual freedoms.

What is the difference in the loss of the freedom to walk on the street at night, or be secure in your own home or property because of a fear of being attacked or gunned down as an innocent bystander; from having the source of inspiration for this kind of behavior controlled?

As a private citizen, I could well get along without ever seeing a movie where the language is so proliferated with filth that the youngsters viewing it would have to be creations not to realize that their being allowed to attend is tacit approval to their indoctrination to this kind of behavior.

So what do we do? We can't keep on hoping that everything is going to work out OK in the end. Nor can we all wear bulletproof vests and pack firearms. I think a little soul searching is in order to see if we like what society is turning into. If you think that there just might be a possibility that this has any bearing on the pro-

Distortions

Dear Editor:

It is truly amazing how the people governing the CRA find it necessary to resort to outright lies in order to discredit anyone who disagrees with them. The July newsletter of the CRA (edited by David Maradel), states that design review "...was discontinued when Mayor Eastwood fired the planning commission..."

This is categorically untrue. Design review of both residential and commercial development in Carmel has continued uninterrupted during all of the Eastwood administration and to this day.

During the previous (Townsend) administration, design review was made more cumbersome by abolishing the planning commission's Design Review Committee. This committee for most of Carmel's history had been the key to effective design review by way of screening project designs prior to their public review by the entire planning commission. The committee consisted of three planning commissioners.

After some three years of effort by the Eastwood planning commission appointees, the Design Review Committee was finally reconstituted and made a part of the design review process again.

The newsletter's editor was a member of the Townsend administration that made the design review process less effective, and he should know better than he appears to about its history.

Honest disagreement on issues is one thing, but stooping to lies and distortions is an anathema to Carmelites who have a genuine concern for the well-being of our community.

Taxing problems

Dear Editor:

To the minority group of registered voters who actually vote, listen-up. Have courage. No matter how few vote, your majority-vote will continue to select your government.

Not taxpayers, although a majority, they exercise no effect upon (good) government. In fact, their payment of exorbitant taxes actually destroy the purpose of democracy. The big, fawning, group of majority taxpayers continue to approve the national debt. Paying over $50 million every day (interest only), to foreigners. Is your elected official doing a good job? Read my lips.

Almost half of earned wages go to politically instigated city, county, state and federal taxes. Politicians haven't a dime that's not appropriated from the man on the street. A $20,000 annual paycheck becomes $11,000 take-home. Do you buy that? It's nothing new but it's amazing that registered voters continue voting these incumbent clowns back into office.

Congress authorizes S&L managers to loan out five times customer deposits. Do you wonder why S&L's go belly-up?

When voters approve bond issues, they become (loans), and immediately double the taxpayer's debt. Has anyone heard of pay-as-you-go? Of course they have, but no one gives a damn, not even registered voters.

Consider this 17-word advice: "Unless your elected official is representing you in an outstanding manner, vote the incumbent out of office." Now; if you don't buy that, consider this: No tax

Water board delays decision on golf courses

By FRANK GEORGE

AFTER HOURS of tense, emotional debate Monday night, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District Board put off a decision on a rationing ordinance for area golf courses to a special meeting next month.

'Without the golf courses, there will be no jobs, no tournaments and no charitable events. If the golf courses get to the point where we have only green tees and greens, who do I lay off first?'

— Bob Zoller

"We don't want to be treated as water bandits," said Don Boston of Rancho Canada Golf Club, expressing the frustrations of local golf course operators who have been trying to reach an agreement with the board.

Motion after motion was made by directors on the ordinance, but none achieved a majority approval, so the meeting was continued. No date, time or place was set for the September meeting, but district general manager Jim Cofer said his staff will prepare drafts for two or three possible versions of the ordinance.

One version that may be considered at the special meeting was moved by Director Karin Strasser Kauffman, 5th District supervisor. Strasser Kauffman suggested the 13 courses represented by the Greater Monterey Bay Golf Course Association should be required to ration 25 percent annually. If the resorts could not cut back that much, those who saved less than 20 percent would be judged under rationing Or-inance No. 49 (the current rationing ordinance), and subject to fines.

Prior to the public hearing, Director Kenneth Long had proposed a draft requiring the courses to conserve 27 percent with quarterly compliance. Mandatory reduction in irrigation acreage for second-time violators was also included in Long's ordinance.

A third was suggested by Director Dale Hekhuis. His version required the courses to decide whether they wanted to be addressed as a group or as individuals by the next meeting. If they chose to be viewed as a group, they would be required to reduce consumption by 27 percent or face fines. If they opt to remain individuals, they would need to conserve the 20 percent imposed on the public in Ordinance No. 49.

Board chairman Dick Heuer showed support for an ordinance with a 27 percent goal and quarterly assessment. In an Aug. 12 letter to the directors and attorney representing golf courses, Myron Etienne, he said, "The proposed rationing requirements have been repeatedly loosened to the point that Ordinance No. 50 as presently written imposes lesser requirements on the golf courses than on any other element of the community."

The only draft supported by the golf course association has a 27 percent goal and a 20 percent annual collective requirement. Many of the courses cannot conserve 20 percent during dry months, they maintained.

Directors Jim Hughes, Morris Fisher and Paul Davis all supported that ordinance.

Golf course representatives argued that courses supply customers for other industries in the area, such as hotels and restaurants. Besides that, they said, they provide jobs both directly and indirectly for thousands of people.

"Without the golf courses, there will be no jobs, no tournaments and no charitable events," said Bob Zoller, president of the association. "If the golf courses get to the point where we have only green tees and greens, who do I lay off first?"

Cofer said the meeting next month will address only the golf course rationing issue. "It will be noticed just like a regular meeting."

The Monday night stalemate was intended to be a first reading of the ordinance, which has been debated for many months by the board, citizens groups and the association.

Although he admits the board is divided in several different directions, Heuer said he is optimistic there will be a decision at the special meeting. He said they will have to reach a position that they can get a majority vote on, but he indicated he may not be ready to compromise on one of the issues.

"They've been achieving a 27 percent reduction, which has not had an effect on the quality of the game or tourism," he said. Heuer said the courses have achieved this in their voluntary reduction efforts over the past 10 months.

Dale Boust of Quail Lodge does not agree with Heuer's claim. He said Heuer is basing it only on his limited experience.

"He's only basing it on walking into a local tournament and asking a few of the players whether they feel the quality of playing has diminished," said Boust. "He's taking one small incident and interpreting that to speak for all the tourism that comes to the Monterey Peninsula."

When asked if he thinks the association and the board can come to an agreement, Boust said, "I don't know at this time. I know we're not going to be able to keep above 27 percent this year, because the hot months are coming."

In other business, the board swiftly approved and passed the second reading of an ordinance doubling the water emergency user fee on area water bills. This ordinance is designed to pay for the district's water rationing program and it involves a 6 percent increase on the district's surcharge.

On an average monthly bill of about $18 (including a recent rate increase granted to Cal-Am Water Co. by the state Public Utilities Commission), the surcharge would amount to about $1.50.

The increase was necessitated by the reduction in funds coming in because of public rationing efforts.

Palo Colorado landowner accused of illegal grading; state sues

By DAVID LELAND

CITING A failure to observe the state Coastal Act, the attorney general's office has filed a complaint against absentee Palo Colorado Canyon landowner Olaf Lange.

Filed in Monterey County Superior Court, the complaint alleges that Lange illegally created a subdivision without securing a coastal permit. Moreover, the lawsuit accuses Lange of illegally grading roads on his 631-acre parcel.

Lange could face fines of up to $5,000 for each day the violations go unchecked, according to state law.

The attorney general's office is asking that Lange either apply for and be granted a coastal permit, or restore the land to its original state.

Even if Lange applies to the state Coastal Commission for a permit, that does not mean one will be granted.

"It might be possible he couldn't get a permit," said Joseph Rusconi, deputy attorney general. "But that's not for me to decide."

Rusconi entered the case at the request of the Coastal Commission, which asked for assistance during a meeting in May.

Joining the attorney general's office in the complaint is the state Department of Fish and Game, which is handling environmental concerns.

"Defendants have substantially diverted or obstructed the natural flow, or substantially changed the beds, channels or banks or streams," according to the complaint, referring to the condition of Rocky Creek.

Indeed, county records indicate the road, which crosses Sweetwater Creek, has caused considerable erosion, sedimentation and siltation, according to the Department of Fish and Game biologist Mike Berry.

The case bears a striking resemblance to that of John Murphy, who was accused by the district attorney's office three years ago of illegally grading a maze of roads on Little Horse Ranch, adjacent to Lange's property.

That case is in litigation, with both sides still attempting to come to terms on a temporary erosion-control plan before the winter rains.

Monterey County Deputy District Attorney Morgan Taylor, who is prosecuting Lange and Murphy, told The Pine Cone that he has not decided how expeditiously to pursue erosion control with Lange.

Before that decision is made, Taylor said he will take Rusconi and erosion-control experts on to the property for an appraisal.

The issue as to what can be done regarding erosion control is somewhat murky because Lange has not answered his complaint. Taylor said he served Lange's Salinas-based attorney Jack Cling with a summons, but has received no notification that Lange had been served at his home in Hawaii.

Telephone calls to Cling were not returned.

THE LAWSUIT represents almost a decade of land-use problems between Lange, who purchased the parcel in 1979 from Leona Morris, and the Coastal Commission.

In March of 1983, Lange convinced deputy county counsel J.R. Ramos that an old parcel division used to identify mining claims could be used for lot subdivision.

The county then issued Lange Certificates of Compliance for 17 U.S. Patent lots, which essentially divided his single parcel into separate legal lots of record.

The Coastal Commission strenuously objected to the issuance of the Certificates of Compliance, arguing that first a subdivision needed to be established pursuant to the Subdivision Map Act.

In essence, the certificates allow Lange to sidestep strict government environmental laws, requiring only an administrative review.

The Coastal Commission then notified both Monterey County and Lange that he needed to obtain a coastal permit. His project, the commission said, also should be reviewed under the guidelines of the Big Sur Land Use Plan.

In December of 1984, the county found that the Certificates of Compliance were illegal because U.S. patent lots were not records for subdivision.

Moreover, it was found that unless certificates are registered with the county recorder's office, which serves as notification to others of the proposed land division, they are not legal.

Lange did not register his certificates until 1986, after the county had deemed the certificates invalid.

In the interim, Lange had sold off several parcels to private parties and, in 1986, moved about 3,100 cubic yards of soil without securing county or coastal permits.

Also named in the lawsuit as defendants are Jack Martin, Elizabeth Martin, Stephen Rianda, Jr., Brian Rianda, and Judith Rianda, who all own parcels subdivided by Lange.

It is unclear if the purchase of parcels owned by Lange is contingent upon rectification of his legal problems. None of the defendants were available for comment.

In 1987, Lange applied for, and was granted, a special county permit to complete his grading, subject to Coastal Commission approval.

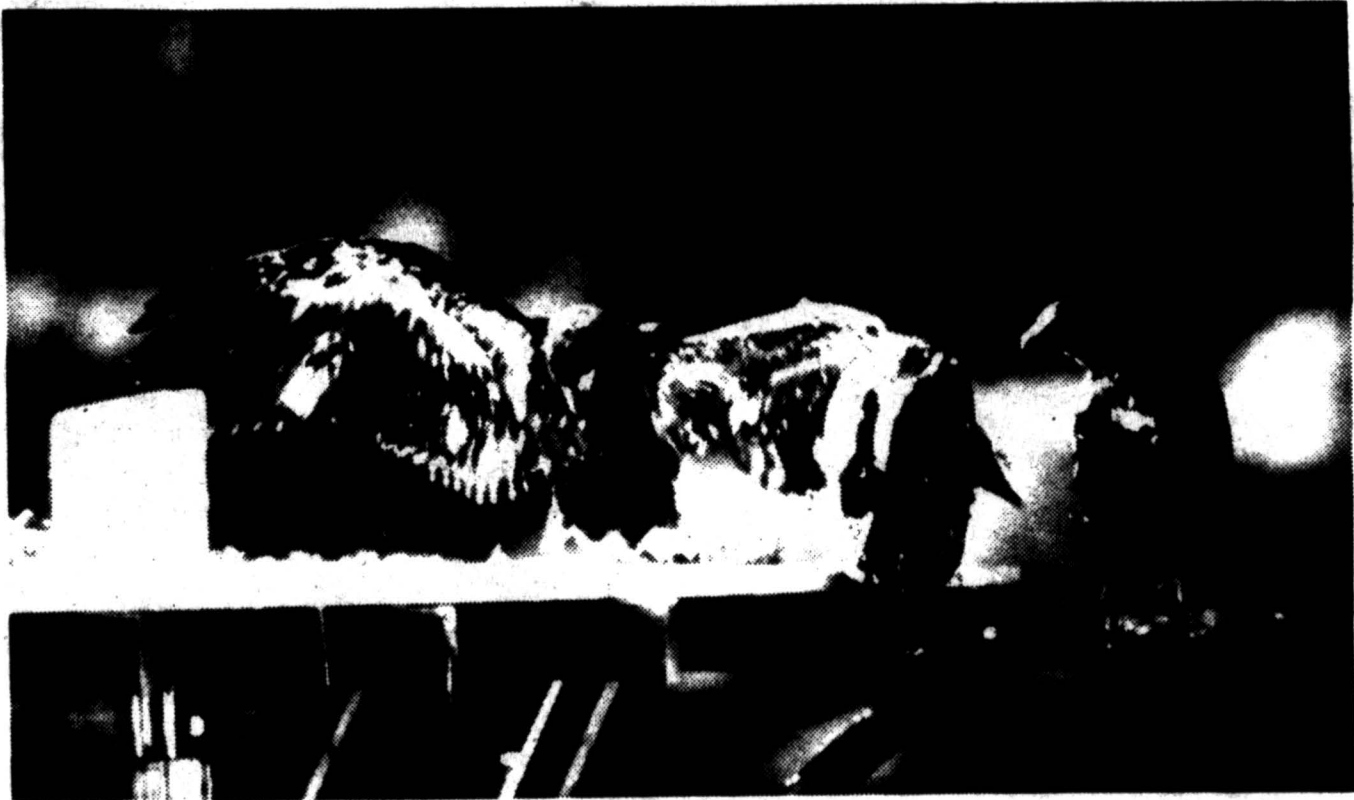

County records indicate that Lange failed to file an application for a coastal permit.

BETWEEN 1986-89, the Coastal Commission continually urged the county to require Lange to get a coastal permit for both the road and the subdivision.

Lange, who has argued that roads existed on his land before grading began, appeared before the county Planning Commission on Nov. 30, 1988 and Feb. 8, 1989 and was asked for maps detailing any existing roads. No maps have been offered.

In April of 1989, the planning commission told Lange to perform an environmental impact report for the property.

Such a document has not been forthcoming, according to Patrick Downs, county planner, who said the planning commission has denied Lange's grading application.

BALD EAGLES on the release tower in the Ventana Wilderness in Big Sur. The Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary released 10 bald eagles to the wilds on Aug. 17 and 24.

Ten bald eagles released into Big Sur's Ventana Wilderness

ON THE 17th and 24th of August, the Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary released to the wild the 10 bald eagles translocated from Vancouver to Big Sur.

The 11-year-old non-profit agency, whose primary mission is to protect endangered species of plants and animals on the central coast of California, has for the past five years focused its effort on restoring the American population to the Big Sur wilderness where they once thrived, said Neil Newman, executive director.

This is the fifth year bald eagles have been released on the central coast in an attempt to re-establish this endangered species to its native habitat.

To date, the Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary has released 27 bald eagles from the sanctuary's 30-foot tower. The staggered release this year is designed to accommodate the different age groups, and will bring the total of eagles relocated to 37.

Through tracking devices, the release site will allow attendants to follow the progress of the bald eagles, both on foot and by plane until they disperse from the area.

When these eagles reach breeding age in four to six years they will once again return to the central coast to breed and, thus, bring back the local population of these majestic birds which last nested here in 1933.

1990 signals the last year of the Five-Year Bald Eagle Reintroduction Project which was designed to saturate the area, and extend the southern range of the bald eagles by establishing four breeding pairs.

Already positive signs are in evidence as exemplified by the three eagles previously released by the sanctuary, which have taken up residence at Lake San Antonio in Southern Monterey, Newman said.

As it takes four to six years for the eagles to reach maturity, the sanctuary will continue to monitor through 1996 for any returning birds and breeding activity, she added.

Planners deny rezoning request for restaurant

By FRANK GEORGE

THE CARMEL Planning Commission denied a rezoning request from two local businessmen and approved wine tasting at Carmel Vintage Shoppe last Wednesday.

our time and effort on the planning commission."

LeTowt said he and Craig Ling, owner of Creme Carmel restaurant, will appeal the decision to the Carmel City Council.

LeTowt bought property on Mission Street between Fourth and Fifth avenues in 1976 with the intention of eventually putting a restaurant there. But the area was down-zoned from resident-commercial to resident-limited commercial in 1984. Ling wants to put his restaurant on the property because the rent is too high on San Carlos Street where Creme Carmel is now located.

"If we (gave LeTowt the rezone), we have changed the allowable use of that house forever," said Commissioner Brian Congleton. "Craig (Ling) wants to get out of that rent spiral by buying property. (If the commission allows the rezone), we will actually be throwing that property in a new rent spiral. I would love to see that restaurant in there, but that's not the issue."

The commission denied the rezone 6-1, with Commissioner Philip Coniglio in the minority.

"Let Carmel be Carmel and not something else," said Ann Woolworth of the Carmel Residents Association. "This would degrade and downgrade that property very much."

LeTowt said as part of the procedure he circulated a petition about the rezone prior to appearing before the commission. He said more than 50 percent of the neighborhood liked the idea of having Creme Carmel on their block.

"I'm going to do whatever Craig Ling wants," said LeTowt. "If he wants to appeal it (to the city council), I'll appeal it. If he wants to go to court over it, we'll go to court over it."

"I don't know that that's a feasible avenue to pursue," Ling said of the city council appeal option. "But this particular property is so close. The properties just to the south of it are in the commercial zone."

Another issue before the commission was approved, but difficult to word.

Carmel Vintage Properties wanted to amend the use permit for their liquor store on the southwest corner of Dolores Street and Seventh Avenue. Prices of fine wines are such that many customers want to taste the vintage before buying, said Carmel lawyer Tom Nash, a part-owner of the store.

"Everybody's intent was the use of two-ounce glasses for tasting rather than eight-ounce drink glasses," said Congleton, who at one point got into a heated debate with Commissioner Lindsay Hanna. "The rest of it was merely our search to find the right wording."

Nash said he and city Community Planning and Building Department assistant planner Donna Pruett thought they had made a clear case for the commission.

"I simplified the staff report as much as possible," said Pruett. "I wanted to allow the commission to deem what was appropriate for the wine tasting, since it's not a common use in Carmel."

Nash and the other co-owners, Peter and Voulis Pappas of Carmel, had received a use permit from the commission when they moved the store from Dolores between Ocean Avenue and Seventh Street in February. At that time, they had requested the wine-tasting facility, but had to withdraw it in order to get the move approved.

The three wanted to have tables, chairs and lectures for the facility, which the commission did not approve. In simplifying the request, Nash and Pruett left some technicalities open, hence the debate.

In other action, the commission continued the consideration of a coastal permit for the design of a seawall located on the north end of Carmel Beach.

"We have asked them (Craig McFarland, owner of the property and his contractors), to make a couple of sample digs to determine the resistance of scouring during storms," explained Congleton.

The city has been reviewing improvements to the McFarland seawall since 1985. Since that time McFarland and the city have been going through hearings on how to improve the wall's looks. The original wall and one on property owned by the city further down the beach received extensive damage during the winter of 1983.

"I hope the matter is resolved as soon as possible," said McFarland. "I've spent a tremendous amount of money trying to come up with various designs to improve the wall's appearance over these past years."

Open meeting law supported by supes

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors this week unanimously reiterated its commitment to conduct business under previously state-mandated open meeting laws.

As part of a budget-cutting act, the state Legislature recently eliminated the revised Brown Act, which called for public comment period, 72-hour notice of agenda items and a limitation on introduction of non-agenda items.

The logic of the Legislature's move centered upon state-reimbursement to the cities for money spent noticing public meetings.

"This is a major issue as far as the public is concerned," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman. "My constituents have always been very active (at the board)."

Prior to the revised Brown Act in 1986, major decisions were often formed by local government officials with no public input because items were introduced covertly during a meeting's end.

"Unless people know something is on the agenda, they won't be able to show up," Strasser Kauffman said, adding that the only cost to the county for continuing the open-meeting process will be noticing public hearings in local newspapers.

The board will also send letters to all county commissions and boards urging them to continue complying with open meeting laws in effect and to give notice and provide opportunity for public comment.

Road work scheduled for Carmel Valley Road

ROADWORK ON Carmel Valley road may cause slower traffic and short delays between Sept. 10 and when work is scheduled to be completed Sept. 25.

According to Monterey County Public Works Department Director Gerald Gromko, the department's Monterey crew will be placing asphalt and crushed rock surface on Carmel Valley Road from Carmel Rancho Boulevard to Pilot Road.

Traffic will be controlled by flagmen and slower traffic and delays are possible, Gromko said.

Because some loose gravel will remain on the new road surface, signs reading "Loose Gravel - 25 MPH" and "Speeding May Damage Vehicle," will be posted until they are no longer needed.

"The application of this type of road surface reduces maintenance cost, extends the life of the pavement and improves the driving characteristics of the road," said Gromko.

Supervisor Shipnuck picked for Caltrans advisory committee

SECOND DISTRICT Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck has been selected to serve on Caltrans' District 5 External Advisory Committee according to Tom Pollock, Caltrans area director.

The committee will make recommendations to Caltrans on state transportation policy and on specific problem issues within the four-county area served by District 5.

"I am pleased to represent Monterey County on this new regional advisory committee," said Shipnuck, who serves as chairperson for the county Transportation Commission. "I salute Director Pollock for providing a forum for those of us interested in meeting the transportation needs of our residents and visitors to the Central Coast."

Pollock has selected 22 members representing the general public, regional agencies, developers, contractors, vendors, public interest groups and regulatory agencies.

Membership is drawn from Monterey, San Benito, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara counties, which compose District 5.

Meetings will be held quarterly, with the first gathering scheduled for Sept. 21 in San Luis Obispo.

Seniors program needs participants

IN SEPTEMBER 1987 the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department began a program to benefit senior citizens of the community in two ways.

First, senior citizens who live alone and are often "shut-in" their residences with little or no contact with friends or relatives, can be provided with the security of knowing that someone does truly care about their welfare. Also, those concerned with their physical well-being will have someone to check on them daily.

Second, seniors interested in participating in some type of community program will be able to work with those in their own peer group by volunteering to place these daily telephone calls to the recipients of the program.

Currently, the department has a full staff of volunteers, however, anyone wishing to be placed on an alternate list to fill in when another caller is unable to make it or is away on vacation, is encouraged to call for information.

Anyone living alone, whether concerned about their health or not, and all those seniors wishing to make new friends or just have the opportunity to talk with someone new each day is encouraged to participate in this program.

Telephone calls are made daily by a volunteer beginning at 9:30 a.m. No participant is ever restricted to their home; they need only contact the police department in advance if they plan to be away during the time the calls are placed to avoid any confusion. If someone fails to answer their telephone, a patrol unit is sent by to conduct a welfare check at the residence.

In addition to these daily telephone "visitations," social events are also planned periodically as well as home visitations upon request.

Anyone interested in becoming a part of this program should contact Desk Officer Cathy Dampier at Carmel Police Department, 624-6403.

Cal-Am rate hike OK'd by PUC

(which was 2 percent before the hike), on water bills that pays district rationing program employees' salaries and the program's expenses. This fee is also partially based on how much water the PUC thinks Cal-Am will sell.

On an average $16.47 water bill, the old user fee was 34 cents. With Cal-Am's rate hike and the 6 percent district increase (on an average bill, which will increase to $18.66), the district fee will now be $1.52, making the total monthly bill about $20.

"That's the cost of the drought," said district General Manager Jim Cofer. "That's why we need to work on a long-term water supply. Droughts are expensive and environmentally damaging."

Environmental damage from droughts not only includes the loss of lawns, gardens and other residential vegetation, but fish habitat and river bank vegetation on the Carmel River, Cofer said. Foy said the public, however, will record some gains from their rationing efforts.

"Since we didn't produce that much water, we didn't use that much power and chemicals. The difference then will be deducted from the rate increase," he said.

Foy said revenue loss to the company from July 1989 to August 1990 was $2.9 million. This figure is partially offset by the savings in power and chemical costs of more than $364,000, which brings the net "recoverable balance" to $2.55 million.

Foy said the revenue loss during the mandatory rationing period, Jan. 1, 1989 through July 1990, is not recoverable and that Cal-Am will absorb that loss.

Curry urged the public to voice their opinions on this or any other matter concerning the PUC by writing to:

Parham moving ahead with service center plans

By DAVID LELAND

PLANS MOVED forward this week for a contractor service center in Carmel Valley Village, despite the matter still being pursued in court.

'I'm just going to move forward with it. I have no idea how these guys can keep winging away at it.'

— Bill Parham

Earlier this month the 6th District Court of Appeals in San Jose overruled 18 valley residents who claimed the proposed service center would generate increased traffic on Carmel Valley Road and likely cause toxic waste.

"I'm just going to move forward with it," said Bill Parham, referring to the plans for the 1.7-acre site near Pilot Road, adding that he was surprised that the plaintiffs were appealing the ruling. "I have no idea how these guys can keep winging away at it."

But Pacific Grove-based attorney Mike Stamp and Carmel Valley-based attorney Richard Rosenthal, who have taken on the case in a pro bono capacity, are convinced that further environmental studies will reveal potential problems.

"This is a case of political accountability," said Stamp, adding that the negative declaration approved by county supervisors for the site was negligent. "If they (supervisors) had done a traffic study they would have realized they couldn't approve it."

Stamp said that Parham, who owns Peninsula Septic Tank Service, is "at risk" in breaking ground on the project, which has county-approved plans and allocated water.

Stamp said he plans to petition the appeals court to overturn its ruling. If that fails, he will "likely" seek justice in the state Supreme Court.

Stamp added that he holds out little hope for victory in the appeals court, which has reversed its pro-environmental stance with the addition of three judges appointed by Gov. George Deukmejian.

"This court is now becoming well-known for its overt hostility for environmental cases," he said. "This court has decided three cases that have been disastrous for environmentalists."

Stamp named the current case in Carmel Valley Village, a housing development in Santa Clara Valley and San Jose's General Plan as losses for environmentalists.

Stamp claimed that, according to the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), the courts should have mandated an EIR simply because of the disparity of opinion.

"The case can only be explained by the animosity of the (appeals) court toward CEQA," Stamp said. "This court is a pro-business court."

"How MANY times do you have to win?" I've won four times now," said Parham, referring to victories before planners, supervisors, Monterey County Superior Court and appeals court.

Before the appeals court was a ruling from Monterey County Superior Court Judge Robert Hinrichs, who found that supervisors had followed state environmental law when they approved the project in 1988.

Parham said he has "lots of interest" in his service center, which will include about 15,500 square feet of metal buildings, storage and parking areas. Supervisors favored the plan because it centralizes the building trades in Carmel Valley.

If realized, the service center will fulfill a dream began by contractors many years ago, which was stalled by a building moratorium throughout much of the 1980s, as the Carmel Valley Master Plan worked its way through the courts.

While Parham said that he has spoken with about a dozen interested contractors, he has taken no deposits for leased space.

When completed, the service center will house businesses such as general contractors, plasterers, plumbers, paving and grading concerns, and woodworkers.

Parham said he plans to break ground by the first of the year, with the center being available for tenants by March or April.

Sports is no 'tall' order for this Carmel resident

By DAVID LELAND

LUCKILY FOR peninsula sports fans, KCBA-35 sportscaster Craig Kilborn heeded his father's sage advice at an early age.

It was during Craig's adolescence that the elder Kilborn realized that there was more to becoming a professional basketball player than his son merely standing 6-feet-5-inches tall.

"When I was a youngster my dad said, 'You're not going to play professional basketball; the odds are against it,'" remembers Carmel resident Kilborn, 28. "But I was always verbal."

Indeed, at a relatively young age, Kilborn has parlayed his good humor and easy-going style into a successful career as sportscaster with the Salinas-based Fox Network affiliate.

"I'm not as polished as I want to be, but most people are very happy," says Kilborn, who debuted Aug. 12 and is perhaps best-known for his Oakland A's postgame shows. "I want to be known as a nice person who is funny and knowledgeable."

Kilborn has grabbed his share of the viewing audience — which stretches as far away as Santa Clara County — by offering a postgame show filled with trivia contests and features such as the host challenging (and beating), San Francisco 49er tight end Wesley Walls to a basketball contest.

"There's kind of a cult following for the postgame show," says Kilborn, who studied film and television while attending Montana State University while on a basketball scholarship. "As soon as the game ends, people start calling in."

Viewers seem to enjoy the often-obscure trivia dug up by Kilborn.

For example, on one recent show, Kilborn demonstrated the personalized batting stances of baseball greats Rod Carew and Willie Stargell, and invited viewers to call in with their answers.

Born and raised in Minnesota, Kilborn toured Europe with a semi-professional basketball team after graduating from college.

By that time, however, his real love had become broadcasting.

After a brief stint at KFTY in Santa Rosa, Kilborn moved to Los Angeles and did play-by-play announcing for the Savannah Spirits of the Continental Basketball Association.

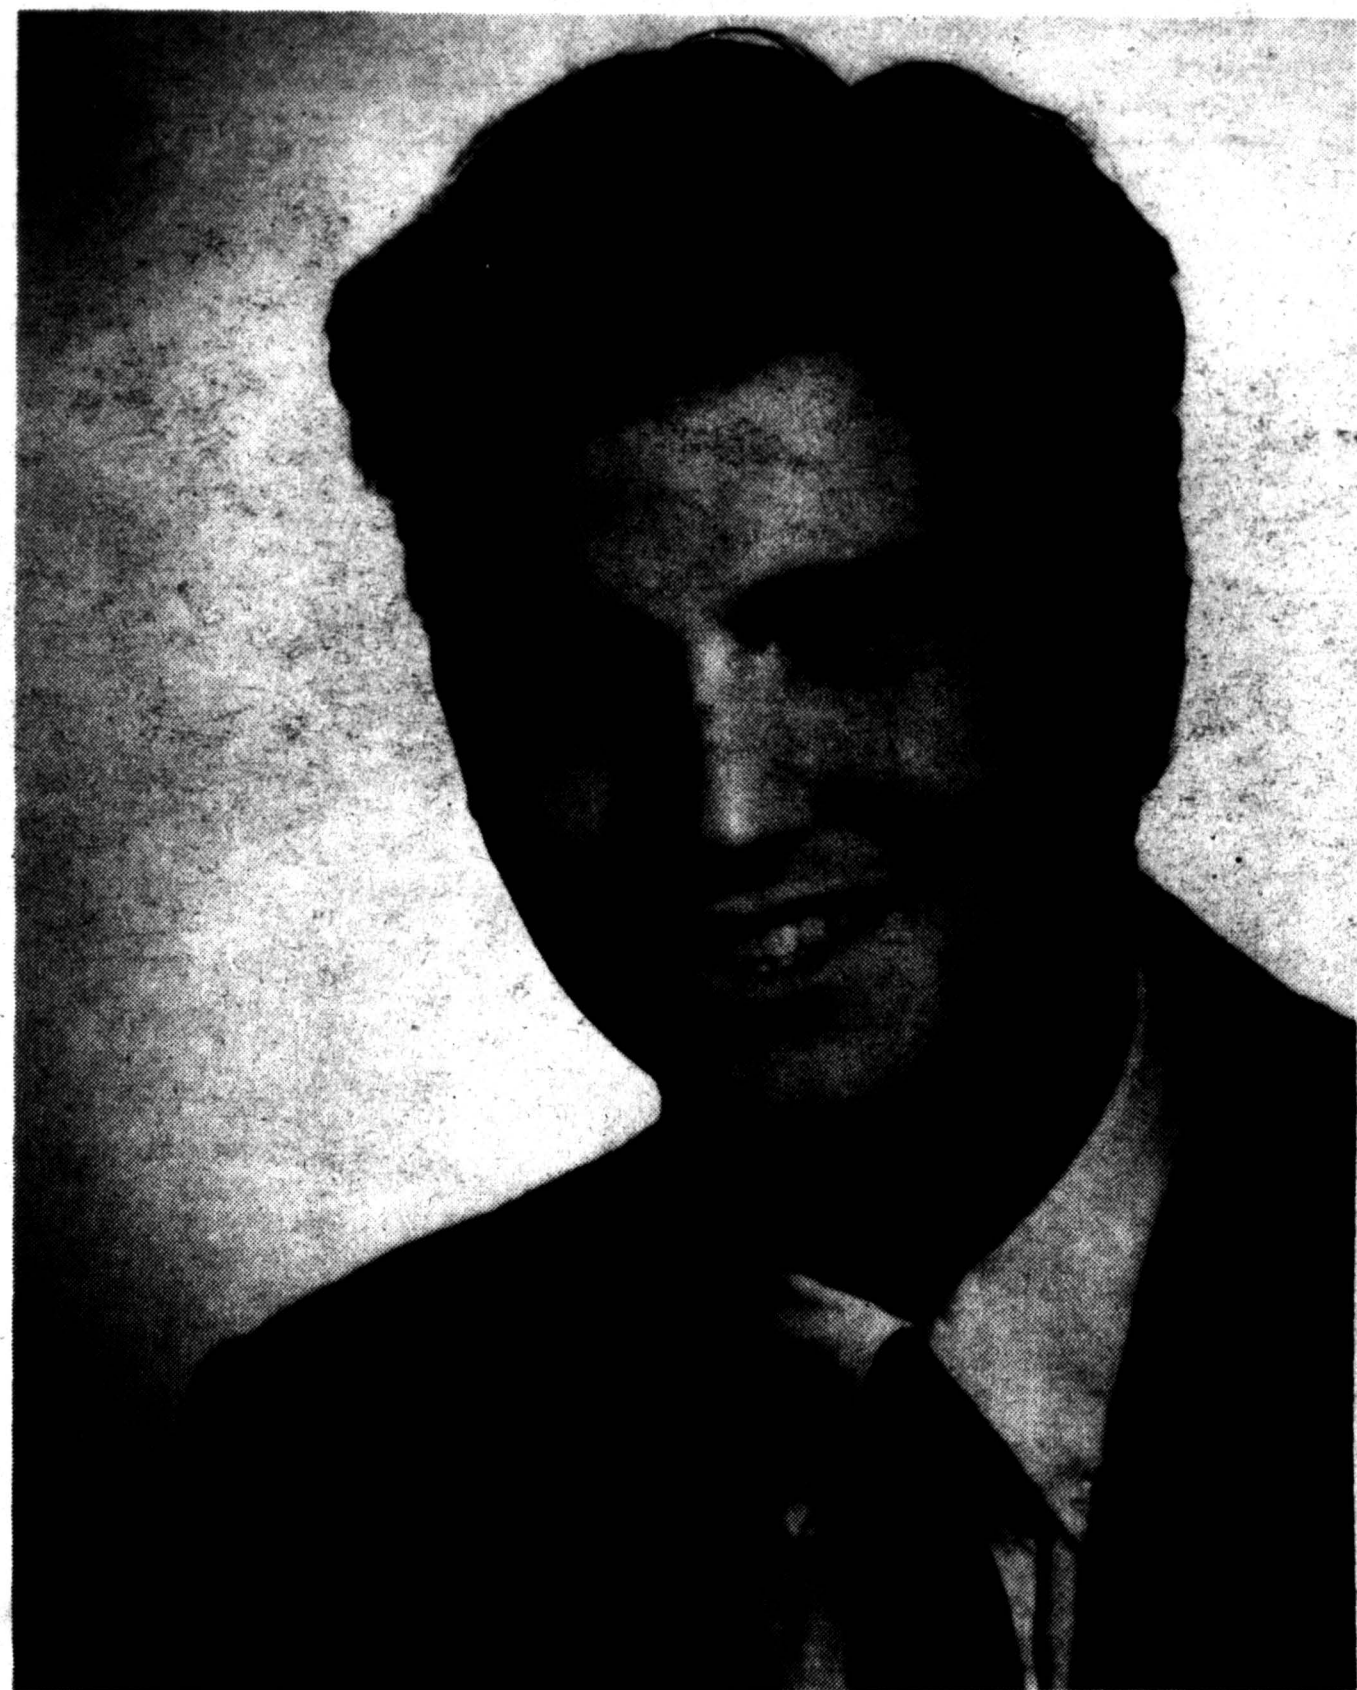

'I'm not as polished as I want to be, but most people are very happy. I want to be known as a nice person who is funny and knowledgeable.'

— Craig Kilborn

"My dream is to do play-by-play in the NBA," says Kilborn, who currently has traded the basketball courts for tennis courts during his offtime.

Kilborn is determined to apply an extra punch to his sportscasts, which take place weekly between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.

"You can just read sports, but it's much more difficult to deliver it in an entertaining way," he says.

KCBA-35 sports anchor and Carmel resident Craig Kilborn has quickly gathered a loyal following since debuting on the Salinas-based station Aug. 12.

Swim club grooming young athletes for 1996 Olympics

By SUSAN BECK

THREE GIRLS from the Monterey Peninsula hope to be in the Olympics.

Desiree Castro, 15, Julie Korper, 15, both of Carmel, and Heather Pease, 14, of Carmel Valley, are future U.S. Olympians, said Carmel Valley's Donn Squire, co-coach of the Cypress Swim Club, a non-profit youth group.

'Synchronized swimming has evolved from the 'water ballet' approach, and is now very technical, athletic, and demanding.'

— Donn Squire

Looking toward the 1996 Olympics, Squire is optimistic that the girls will be women competing in the newest Olympic sport, synchronized swimming.

"They're well on their way. They are focused and on target. All the steps are falling into place, one year at a time, and they have remarkable potential."

Castro, Korper, and Pease swim as a trio. In the duet competition Castro and Pease swim together, and they both compete as soloists. Under the guidance of Squire and co-coach Del Neel, the girls won seven gold medals between them for synchronized swimming in the 1989 National Junior Olympic Games.

"Synchronized swimming has evolved from the 'water ballet' approach, and is now very technical, athletic, and demanding. There are no shortcuts to success in this sport. Each swimmer has special needs and requires individual instruction," said Squire.

The volunteer coach of the Cypress Swim Club got hooked on synchronized swimming while working for the American Red Cross water safety program in the mid-'50s. He continued swiming at the University of Iowa under the Amateur Athletic Union, and in 1957 and 1958 he won first place in the junior and senior national championships.

Girls train for 1996 Olympics

At the 1960 Olympics in Rome, Italy, Squire swam with the United States Synchronized Team in an exhibition to promote the sport on an international level.

After Rome, he moved to the Monterey Peninsula. It wasn't long before he was coaching for the Girl Scouts at Fort Ord. Their team, the Ordettes, experienced reasonable success. However, because of the constant turnover of swimmers, it was difficult to develop athletic unity, said Squire.

While working at Fort Ord he lived in Carmel Valley, which put him in contact with long-time valley resident Phyllis Crockett.

She taught physical education at Carmel High School and worked for the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross water safety services.

Crockett was instrumental in getting the Carmel Valley community to donate time and money to build a swimming pool. In 1964 Squire's Ordettes were asked to swim in the dedication to the new Carmel Valley Community Pool.

The swim team was a success and Crockett thought synchronized swimming was a great activity. In the fall of 1964 she convinced the Carmel Unified School District to make the pool facilities available to Squire's newly founded Cypress Swim Club.

"Sixty-four kids tried out, but we only had room for 20. Now, we have 10 and would like that many more," said Squire. "This is a thinking person's sport. It requires discipline, strength, stamina, and a high degree of concentration."

It is very important for parents and children to have a balance of motivation, said Squire.

"It's a big responsibility for parents to get their kids to practice regularly and on time. This sport is not just swimming. The kids learn the value of teamwork and a strong sense of responsibility to one another."

A perfect example of team responsibility, said Squire, happened recently when Pease qualified for the United States National Synchronized Swimming Team. Its members are all-stars, 30 top swimmers from individual swim clubs across the country.

Accepting would eliminate the possibility of Castro and Korper, her teammates, from competing in other national meets they had previously qualified for this summer. She declined.

"That's a keen sense of team responsibility," said Squire. "Coaching the children as they transform into young adults is one of the most challenging and rewarding parts of my life."

The minimum training for advanced swimmers requires three hours, three times a week. Beginners of synchronized swimming put in about six hours weekly. The Cypress Swim Club takes whatever "free usage" time is available on a rotation bases within the various school districts on the peninsula, said Squire.

His team is low on the priority list for pool time, yet they compete with the two "power clubs" in the nation — the Santa Clara Aquamads and the Walnut Creek Aquanats, who have shared the national spotlight for the past 20 years.

"Those teams have full support and salaried coaches, it's a business. Subsequently, the success that we have is all the more rewarding because we work so hard to get it," said Squire.

The club now has members from Seaside, Salinas, Monterey, Pacific Grove, Carmel, and Carmel Valley. The coach of the only synchronized swim club between Santa Clara and Los Angeles dreams of getting more community recognition, cooperation from school administrators, and a volunteer to help write grants.

"Synchronized swimming is a straight-forward athletic endeavor. The development of swimmers who are technically proficient is something beautiful to see. It's an esoteric sport with artist elements, a visual beauty that's so arresting," said Squire.

The Cypress Swim Club is forming classes to start in the fall. Boys and girls from 8 to 12 are invited to register. Those accepted will receive one month's free training. Monthly dues are $30. Call 659-2446 for more information.

Kiwanis club a 'building' force behind Carmel Valley community

By SUSAN BECK

"WE BUILD" is the Kiwanis Club's motto, which was evident in the Carmel Valley chapter's efforts to unify the community at the recent Carmel Valley Fiesta.

The Carmel Valley Kiwanis Club was the main sponsor for the August event, providing most of the funds and physical labor to bring it together, said Gene Emer, president of the valley organization.

The Kiwanis put up the seed money to get the fiesta started by using funds from their $22,000 annual budget. The budget is used exclusively for sponsoring events.

The genesis of the fiesta came from within the Kiwanis, who were looking for a major source of funds to put back into the community, said Emer. The fiesta's chairman, Bud McDonald, and about 60 percent of his committee are Kiwanis members.

Emer said that the feedback from the Carmel Valley community about the fiesta has almost all been positive.

"A lot of other valley organizations worked with us. It was a lot of work, but it was great. I hope it was successful enough to continue," said Emer.

Some of the main events of the Carmel Valley Kiwanis throughout the year include a Christmas tree lot, Squid Festival booth, hosted barbecues, annual scholarships, and the Special Olympics.

The two $1,000 scholarships are for Carmel High School seniors who live in Carmel Valley. A good student with outside activities who is involved in community service has an opportunity to qualify for a Kiwanis scholarship.

Every year the Kiwanis board of directors interview five scholarship candidates. "It's a real faith restorer to see these kids doing well in the face of all the problems of the world today," said Emer.

The Special Olympics is another highlight and a great source of satisfaction for Emer. "The kids really appreciate what you do for them, and they have a good time."

The event is for the developmentally disabled. There are a number of Special Olympic games, such as track, basketball, and softball. The event is held throughout the United States ending up with a national competition.

Kiwanis was established in Detroit, Mich., on Jan. 21, 1915. It became an international organization in 1962, and now has 78 countries participating. The objectives are to build human and spiritual character, moral fiber, develop a higher social and business ethic, and form better friendships for a better community. These goals are primarily aimed at the youth.Ermer is a retired Naval officer who moved to the valley eight years ago to work in real estate.
He joined Kiwanis at that time to meet other people in the area and offer his services to the community.There are about 10 Kiwanis clubs in the organization's district, including ones in Salinas and Watsonville. The valley Kiwanis has about 50 members, who meet at Hidden Valley every Tuesday at noon.Women are welcome to join, but as yet haven't done so, said Ermer. Application requires a member sponsor and a basic willingness to do community service. The average time put in for an active member is 40 days a year.The valley Kiwanis club is not business-oriented, it is not a network for people to make deals, it is a social opportunity for anyone 18 or over to give back to the community, said Ermer.The first Kiwanis orientation for the community's youth comes at the junior high school-level Builders Club. It's the Key Club in high school, and in college, the organization is the Circle K.The clubs are funded and sponsored by their local Kiwanis organizations. The Key Club at Carmel High School is sponsored by the Carmel Mission, Carmel and Carmel Valley Kiwanis.For years, Orville Rogers acted as advisor for the valley Kiwanis but had to quit several years ago, said Ermer. "No one has been able to or volunteered to replace him. We need more face-to-face involvement with our youth. As president I am disappointed by this."Ermer said that he was honored to serve as a president on any responsible organization. As for the Kiwanis he said, "It's been fun, but I can't say I'm terribly sad that my year is coming to an end. It's very time-consuming.""I like a close relation with the youth in the community. Almost all of our events are geared toward them. I think they are responsive to our organization because we don't march around in funny hats.""We are designed to 'build' a community, and in fact, frequently take a low profile when involved in a project."Ermer extended an invitation to anyone wishing to join Kiwanis. "The rewards are a sense of satisfaction, feeling of unselfishness, service, and friendship."For more information about the Carmel Valley

Meals on Wheels needs volunteers

DRIVERS AND other volunteers are needed to deliver 200 meals daily to shut-ins and the handicapped on the peninsula for Meals on Wheels.

According to Chuck Poland, a Carmel volunteer, 200 homes are served with three meals five days a week from Carmel Valley to Marina, but 22 volunteer drivers are needed daily to deliver those meals.

"We were seven drivers short the other day," said Poland, who has been pressed into service so often that he's driving almost daily now. "It means a lot to these people. You thank your lucky stars when you leave."

Poland said there are 22 routes, three of them in the Carmel area. One route usually takes from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (including driving to and from the pick-up point in Pacific Grove).

Each shut-in is delivered a breakfast, one cold meal (usually sandwich, salad and juice), and one hot meal. He added that volunteers are also needed to make sandwiches and salads at the Meals On Wheels facility at 700 Jewell Ave. in Pacific Grove.

Almost all of the help is from volunteers. Poland said, so often the agency ends up short-handed. If you would like to volunteer to help out, contact Meals on Wheels at 375-4454.

Meals on Wheels is a non-profit organization.

Birth mothers group meets every month

A BIRTH mothers support group meets once a month at the Childrens Services Center in Monterey.

Birth mothers are women who have given their children up for adoption; the group allows these women to share their feelings with others, according to Teri Livingston, who has been a member of the 2-year-old group.

"There are a lot of women out there...and there's a lot of pain involved," she said. "This gives them a chance to talk about it. We're not a search group, but we have information on it."

The support group meets at 7 p.m. on the last Wednesday of each month at the center at 648 Pine Ave. in Pacific Grove. More information can be obtained by calling either Carol Bishop or Gayle Ward at Childrens Services Center of Monterey County, 649-3033.

Exchange students seeking their home away from home

THE RUSSIANS are coming! So are the French, Spanish, the Italians, Japanese, Australians, the South Americans and the Scandinavians.

Unfortunately, many might not be able to come because there will not be a place for them to stay when they get here.

All over the United States, volunteers and staff with student exchange services say they are facing a critical shortage of host family homes for year-long high school exchanges.

If host families aren't found within the next few weeks, some organizations say that many students eager to live an American experience may have to give up their dream. Were this to happen, some of tomorrow's future foreign leaders may be deprived of the opportunity of learning firsthand about the United States, its customs, its institutions and, above all, its hospitable people.

"We are finding it very difficult to find families interested in hosting. Perhaps the market is too saturated," said J. Scott Thornton, president of International Education Forum.

"There has been a dramatic increase in the number of student exchange service organizations. There are now dozens of foundations bringing thousands of students to visit and study in the United States," Thornton said.

"This dramatic increase in the need for host homes is also coupled by a decline in the number of host families asking for an international student," Thornton continued.

When both husband and wife have separate careers, they are often reluctant to take on the responsibility of caring for an international high school student. They worry that the student may feel neglected and unhappy in this family situation.

"But two-career families, and single parent families should not rule themselves out," says Bill Gustafson, president of ASSE International Student Exchange Programs. "Local coordinators interviewing prospective host families are not looking for a specific traditional family structure that might resemble 'Ozzie and Harriet,'" said Marsha Day, local coordinator. "We are looking for a happy family situation even if it is a busy one. The family must also provide a student with their own bed and include the student with the family meals and normal activities."

Here are some of the exchange agencies seeking local families:

American Scandinavian Student Exchange (ASSE): ASSE, founded as American Scandinavian Student Exchange by the Swedish government, is affiliated with the Swedish and Finnish national Departments of Education, maintains 21 offices in 19 countries and accommodates more than 10,000 high school-age student exchanges annually. In August, over 2,300 girls and boys, 15 through 18 years years of age from Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Mexico, France, England, Australia and eleven other countries, plan on coming to the USA through the ASSE program. Families or persons interested in finding out more about hosting an ASSE exchange student should call Debbie at 1-800-333-3802.

International Education Forum (IEF): Over 1,300 high school age students are expected to arrive in August from Brazil, Denmark, Finland, Sweden, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, the Netherlands, Thailand, and many other countries. Students are highly screened, and academically qualified since school attendance is a requirement. Students will be visiting for 3, 5, or 10 months. They have medical insurance and have their own spending money. Those families interested in hosting an international student should call 1-800-234-8339 and ask for April.

Spanish Heritage: Spanish Heritage needs homes for carefully screened high school students from Spain and Mexico who wish to attend high school for one year in this country. They are fully insured and are responsible for their personal expenses. For further details, call 1-800-669-1223.

Gas prices up by almost 10 cents

THE CALIFORNIA State Automobile Association (AAA) reports that August 1990's gas prices are averaging $1.31, a total of 9-1/2 cents higher than last month's survey of regular unleaded self-service gasoline at 600 gas retailers in northern California and the state of Nevada.

Gasoline prices have risen as a result of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait and also the 5-cent increase in state gasoline tax which began Aug. 1. The August 1990 prices are 16 cents higher than those surveyed a year ago for unleaded self-service gasoline.

CSAA continues to urge motorists to practice auto fuel conservation and to avoid panic-buying of gasoline.

CSAA suggests that you use your care wisely and take steps to conserve gasoline. Make 5 gallons of gas do the work of 6 by:

— Never idling your engine for extended periods. If you expect to wait more than a minute, shut off the engine.

- Car pooling or ride sharing whenever possible.
 - Organizing errands and shopping into fewer trips.
 - Having tune-ups twice a year, which can mean a 9 to 15 percent mileage improvement.

CYC NOTES

By Pat and Mike

Back to the 'S' word

WE KNOW some of you don't like to hear the "S" word because when you hear it you break out in a cold sweat or just want to run and hide. Of course some of you like to hear it since it means having your house to yourself again, or for some of you, going back to work and getting a steady paycheck again.

Yes, it's that time again — "school." It's time to reflect back through the summer and think about all the things you didn't do. But you probably are well-rested for "school" now. We know how draining that can be. So it's time to put those remote controls down, put away those chips and get back to the land of the living once more.

What's three-on-three? We're glad you asked. We will be having a three-on-three basketball tournament in September in our gym. So go out and get a couple of friends together and form a team. Stop by the center with your team information so we can get rolling. Ages 13 to 18 can play and we would like to see some girls' teams out there, showing the guys up.

There are numerous dances and special events coming up, so stop in and check out the information. Also information will be distributed around the "schools," so keep your eyes open.

Starting in two weeks we will be having our Monday Night Football parties. Games start at 6 p.m. and there will be special deals on food, so stop in and check the games out on our new big screen TV.

The weight room is receiving more of its new equipment this week so it's time to get signed up and check it out. Dues are $10 a month for ages 13 to 21. We'll be starting new hours in two weeks. We'll keep you posted on the adult classes. If interested, stop by and let us know so we can set up our schedule.

Those of you who have been gone for summer need to come by and check out our new snack bar after "school." Good food and good prices with the best view in Carmel. Rated Four Stars by the Mobil Travel Guide...as in Mobile, Ala.

Alert! The Carmel Youth Center will be closed Labor Day weekend, so all our labor can rest. Rest from what? Sleeping. Anyway, we'll be closed Sept. 1st through 3rd.

The Carmel Youth Center is located at Fourth and Torres next to the Carmel Police Station. the phone number is 624-3285. Be there or be square.

Transit courtesy cards issued

Monterey-Salinas Transit (MST) Courtesy Cards are now issued on the fourth Thursday of each month from noon until 2 p.m. at the Salinas Recreation Center. In addition, MST prepares cards on the first Monday of each month from noon until 2 p.m. at the New Monterey Senior Center.

MST issues Courtesy Cards free of charge to seniors at least 65 and to persons with disability. Persons carrying a MST Transit Courtesy Card can pay a reduced fare of 35 cents per ride or purchase and use a half price monthly bus pass. MST will also accept a Medicare Card for reduced fare payment.

MST will continue to issue Transit Courtesy Cards at their administrative office at One Ryan Ranch Road in Monterey from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Bus access to the MST office is by Line 8.

For details, call MST at 899-2555 or 424-7695.

Monterey contra dance returns

Singles and couples of all ages are welcome to join the Monterey contra dance, set 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 1 at the YM-CA of the Monterey Peninsula, 600 Camino El Estero, Monterey.

These country-style dances are taught and prompted by a caller and accompanied by live music. No experience is necessary. A beginners' workshop will be held 7 to 7:30 p.m. Admission charge is $4.

Lions honor Bliesner

THE CARMEL Rancho Lions Club honored Lion Ken Bliesner (above, seen with his wife Alys), of Carmel with a "Lion of the Decade" award, in recognition of his distinguished service and dedication to the objectives and principles of Lionism. The presentation was made at a special gathering of Lions and friends Aug. 21 at the home of Lion Elmer and Cleo Rupp. Because of Bliesner's current inability to attend, the award was accepted by his children. He has been continuously active in positions as club director, vice president, president, zone chairman and deputy district governor. He was also involved in many Lion endeavors, such as youth education and development, relief of suffering from afflictions such as sight impairment, hearing difficulties, drug abuse and diabetes. In addition, he is a well-known benefactor throughout the Monterey Peninsula, especially in connection with youth and sports.

WAVE OF "ARRESTS" READIED IN CARMEL JAIL AND BAIL BENEFIT

Carmel Mayor Jean Grace will be among scores of prominent community and business leaders in Carmel looking out from behind bars instead of their office windows on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 5 and 6. It's all part of a fund-raising benefit for the March of Dimes fight against birth defects.

Hosted by the Carmel Plaza, the first annual Carmel Jail and Bail is a two-day event involving the jailing of local citizens who willingly go along with the stint for a good cause. Placed in a mock jail — generally for an hour — they do "hard time" on the phone with friends and colleagues raising bail in the form of contributions to the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

Sponsored by the Carmel Board of Realtors, the Carmel-By-The-Sea Kiwanis Club, and KWAV 97 FM, the benefit is structured so anyone can request the "jailing" of a spouse, friend, co-worker or other person. Requests for "arrests" can be phoned to the March of Dimes in Monterey at 373-8482. Jail hours are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Food, prizes and local entertainers will also highlight the charitable event.

Jailbirds will be transported to the jail site by limousine courtesy of Your Maitre D' Limousines of Carmel. Cellular phones are being provided by Cellular One located in downtown Monterey.

Proceeds go toward the Community Grant Program which provides seed money for special projects working to improve the health of mothers and babies. Some of these projects include: Perinatal Services Program at Natividad Hospital, an incentive pro-

Carmel Historical Survey YESTERDAY & TODAY Sponsored by Carmel Heritage

By Molly Erickson

Halfway there

CARMEL'S ARCHITECTURAL heritage can only be effectively saved through a preservation ordinance, the Carmel Architectural and Historical Survey researchers were told by Carmel Planning Commissioner Brian Congleton on Aug. 25.

Congleton, a local architect and participant in the survey effort, stated that the completion of an inventory of Carmel's residential architecture, and the resulting historical preservation ordinance proposal, will provide an informed guide for future city action. The current lack of a preservation ordinance means the city has no legal method of preventing demolition or major remodeling based on a building's historical or architectural value.

The care and protection of important historical and architectural buildings through a preservation ordinance is the goal of the survey. At the meeting, a few survey members expressed their concern over the ongoing loss of significant buildings, but Congleton emphasized that the fastest, most workable solution to that problem is a preservation ordinance.

To complete the residential inventory — the first stage, required by the State of California, in achieving a preservation ordinance — each house must be both surveyed and researched. The survey stage has already passed the halfway point, according to Enid Sales, director of the Carmel Architectural and Historical Survey. Over 750 of the approximately 1,500 pre-1940 residences have been completed by local volunteers, and the survey sheets continue to pour in.

Conducted by Carmel Heritage and sponsored by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, the survey "is the first of four steps necessary for implementation of the Architectural/Cultural/Historic Resources Element of the City's General Plan," according to Mayor Jean Grace.

"First, each house is surveyed," explained Enid, "which results in a physical architectural description, plus an exterior photograph. Then the house is researched, so we have the hard facts about who built it, when, and for whom. When all 1,500 are accomplished by the survey's volunteers, outside experts will examine this overall inventory to determine which buildings are of particular significance. These historical and architectural experts will then assemble a short list of perhaps 50 to 150 important houses."

"The overall inventory and the short list will help everyone — city officials, residents, property owners, real estate professionals — to understand exactly the type and value of houses we have, and which specific architectural treasures remain in existence. Then Carmelites can make informed decisions regarding what is worth saving, and can encourage sensitive handling of historically significant properties."

"Our increased knowledge will greatly enhance appreciation for significant houses, and the added recognition will be reflected in the real estate value of these houses and similar properties. Potential incentives, such as those included in Pasadena's preservation ordinance, can provide owners with tax benefits, free expert consultation, and other assistance."

Adding that she was greatly encouraged by the strong community support for this preservation effort, Enid emphasized the importance of the historical research now being performed by volunteers on all 1,500 residences. This research focuses on the architect/builder, owner, and construction date of all houses built prior to 1940. Interestingly, early architects also built their own designs, ensuring an individual stamp on the resulting structure.

Sharon Thom, a consultant with Advanced Information Management, was the featured speaker at the monthly meeting, attended by Carmel City Councilwoman Barbara Brooks, Congleton, and 40 volunteers. Thom has advised such varied organizations as Apple Computers, Lucasfilm, and Esalen Institute.

Having met with survey leaders to discuss the challenges unique to this research investigation, Thom presented a manual of her recommended guidelines for increasing efficiency, speed and accuracy. In addition to streamlined methods to obtain and maintain the necessary data, she provided helpful formats for improved research gathering. Thom's valuable insights and positive solutions supplied a new direction for the survey. Her proposals were enthusiastically endorsed by the researchers, who will now be divided into teams focusing on specific tasks.

Team leaders were introduced at the close of the meeting. The system of distributing city blocks for research will be administered by Jean Rodriguez, niece of M.J. Murphy (one of Carmel's earliest architect-builders), and Joyce Herman, a geographer. Eleanor Russell will be in charge of research in City Hall's records; Charis Buckminster will coordinate library research and documentation.

Numerous potential resources currently being explored include the Pine Cone and Cypress (a predecessor of the Herald), newspapers from the 1920s and 1930s. Claudine Van Vleet will coordinate these efforts and all other research performed outside of City Hall and the library.

June Harris, who runs the survey office, is in charge of file reorganization and the collation of survey/research results. Once completed, the final information will be easily accessible to interested parties and residents, who can locate their homes on the large survey office map, then ask to see the relevant file.

It is hoped that private citizens will assist the research effort by coming forth with information about their own residences or those of acquaintances, said Enid.

"We encourage everyone with knowledge concerning the owner, builder, or construction date of pre-1940 Carmel homes still in existence to call or send us information. Anecdotes, notable residents, and local history associated with specific houses are also welcome. Old business records, early photographs of residences, postcards, and family memorabilia will help us fill in the details. Because the architect/builders often left a memorable mark on the community, we are interested in biographical data on them, as well as the owners."

One of this winter's projects is to catalog the photographs now stored in the survey office. Further announcements of this and other upcoming projects will be made in this column, along with survey status reports.

The Carmel Architectural and Historical Survey can be reached at 626-2933. Their office, located in the Flanders Mansion on Hatton Road, is open Tuesday afternoons for interested residents, property owners, and volunteers. Directions: from the parking area, follow the Carmel stone pathway around the mansion to the main south door; once inside, go up the stairs on the left.

Carmel Heritage, who recently leased Flanders Mansion from the city, is developing a program for expanded community use of the building.

GOLF FOUNDATION GIFT DOUBLES MAMMOGRAPHY FUND

A program to help women in financial need receive free mammograms can now serve twice as many women due to a generous donation to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula by the Monterey Peninsula Golf Foundation.

The Golf Foundation, through its philanthropic arm, AT&T Pebble Beach Golf Charities, gave $50,000 to the Sherry Cockle Memorial Fund, a service set up earlier this year by Community Hospital.

The Sherry Cockle Fund was initially established with a $50,000 challenge grant from former U.S. Olympic Committee chairman Peter Ueberroth and the Ueberroth Family Foundation.

Ueberroth, who was the keynote speaker at the hospital's annual meeting in January, asked that the program be named in honor of a close family friend and employee who died of breast cancer.

The "challenge" was for Community Hospital to come up with another $50,000 to match Ueberroth's gift.

Mammograms are performed at the Community Hospital Mammography Center, 880 Cass St., Suite 108 in Monterey. Hospital administrators estimated in March that 100 women could receive free baseline mammograms a year from endowment income earned from the initial grant.

Mammography detects breast abnormalities far smaller than could be perceived by touch. As such, it is the most effective tool for early detection of breast cancer, which will claim an estimated 43,000 lives this year. Detecting breast cancer at its earliest stages dramatically increases the cure rate.

For more information, or to receive an application for a free mammogram, please call the Mammography Center at 372-6106.

ding the school are seeking to become practicing attorneys or are currently in successful careers and wish to expand their horizons by earning a law degree.

NEW ADMINISTRATOR FOR MIRA

Dr. Bruce Weaver, president of MIRA, announced that Thomas J. Logan of Carmel assumed the position of administrator at MIRA on Aug. 20. Logan succeeded Dr. Hazel E. Ross, astronomer, who has accepted a full-time teaching position in the Math Department at MPC starting this fall.

Ross came from Edinburgh, Scotland to Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. While there she met her MIRA colleagues, and in 1972 became one of the nine founding members of MIRA. Dr. Ross has been the administrator for the last six years. She will continue to serve on the board of directors as treasurer.

Tom Logan has a strong background in all phases of non-profit organizations, and is a long-time avid amateur astronomer. He is well-versed in fund raising from both the private and public sectors. He was the director of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art in the early 80s. Before that, he was an associate curator of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and was responsible for packing the Tut exhibition and bringing it to the U.S.

"I'm very enthusiastic about being a part of MIRA," he said. "It is the only privately funded observatory started in the U.S. this century. Now, 18 years after its inception, the observatory is built and we need to concentrate on developing staffing needs to complete research projects and initiate new one, to expand educational outreach programs and to bring the excitement of modern

CSAA HONORS FOUR DIAMOND AWARD WINNERS

The California State Automobile Association (AAA) Monterey District Office, presented the American Automobile Association Four Diamond Award plaque for 1990 to: Csaba L. Ajan, vice president and managing director of the Quail Lodge in Carmel Valley; Carl Jepson, general manager of the Carmel Valley Ranch Resort in Carmel; Dennis R. Mills, vice president and general manager and David Bradford Fink, executive assistant manager of the Highlands Inn in Carmel; and Larry Hoover, innkeeper of the Carriage House Inn in Carmel.

According to CSAA President Brian Hill, a Four Diamond Rating is awarded only to those exceptional properties which "significantly exceed AAA requirements in most physical and operational categories." There were only 71 such awards this year throughout the entire 45 counties of Northern and Central California and the State of Nevada, which comprise CSAA's service territory.

Under the AAA Diamond rating system, accommodations undergo rigorous inspections by CSAA's qualified field representatives and, if the property meets the stated criteria for recommendations, they are then assigned an overall rating of 1 to 5 Diamonds.

The higher ratings are an indication of the degree to which basic standards are exceeded. Hill noted "only a fifth of the properties in the country meet the Triple A's requirements for recommendation. It should also be noted that even a 1 Diamond signifies a quality establishment," Hill said.

Bring own water to Molera Park

Drinking or potable water is no longer available in the Andrew Molera State Park, located on the Big Sur Coast.

In the past, potable water was provided by "water buffalos." The old military metal water tanks on wheels no longer meet state health standards for drinking water and have been removed from the park.

Campers and day users should plan on bringing their own drinking water. Drinking water is available at Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park and Julia Pfeiffer Burns State Park.

For further information, contact the Big Sur District Office at 667-2315.

Park for free in Monterey

The City of Monterey has removed the one-hour parking meters from the first floor of the West Custom House Garage located at Tyler and Del Monte streets downtown. The first floor has been converted to a free one-hour maximum time limit, with the exception of two 24-minute and one handicapped space.

Use toll-free line for park reservations

There is a toll-free telephone number for making reservations at California State Parks through the MISTIX reservation system - 1-800-444-7275.

Reservations from out-of-state callers will still be made through the toll number of 1-619-452-1950.

The toll-free number is not only for state park camping reservations, but also for Hearst Castle tours.

Knowledge of CPR could save lives

More than 70 percent of all CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) rescues occur in the home on an individual known by the rescuer.

Statistics show that more than 650,000 people in the United States died from heart attacks in 1986 and that heart disease is the leading cause of death in Monterey County.

On the other hand CPR saves more than 250 lives a day; the more people that know CPR, the more lives that can be saved.

With that in mind the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross offers CPR classes monthly all year.

Classes are held at the Carmel Red Cross house at Eighth and Dolores. Classes include demonstrations and teaching of the Heimlich maneuver. Cost is $20 for the eight-hour class. A certificate will be presented upon completion.

MONTEREY PENINSULA FRIENDS MEETING

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

A self-destruct formula

From Sept. 2, 1982
Carmel Pine Cone

Several years ago I visited the U.S. Naval Station at Point Mugu with the Monterey Peninsula Navy League. We watched the launching of a north-south satellite from a command post with super-sophisticated telemetry. A Navy chief explained that he could abort the missile or if there was an unobserved malfunction, the missile had a self-destruct mechanism.

Here is Dr. Farrell's Rx prescription for a self-destruct mechanism:

"Never fail to be selfish. Start and end each day with the resolution to look after 'numero uno' and no one else. Talk about yourself at every possible occasion. Use 'I' as often as possible followed by 'me' and 'mine.' Make unreasonable demands especially to be appreciated. Be sure to be suspicious, jealous, and envious of everyone. Do not forget an insult nor adverse criticism. Pretend to forgive and never forget. Trust no man and especially no woman. Rely on no one but yourself. Sulk if others do not show immediate gratitude for your favors. Keep on telling everyone the things you are doing for them. Be sarcastic - shirk duties. Do not miss a chance to wave your flag with the inscription It's hard to be humble when you are as great as I am."

These actions are guaranteed to be self-destructive. They will ensure that you will be miserable, and by all that's holy, you deserve to be.

Finally, may we always remember that a man out of joy is heaviest when empty. Amen.

The Golden Years

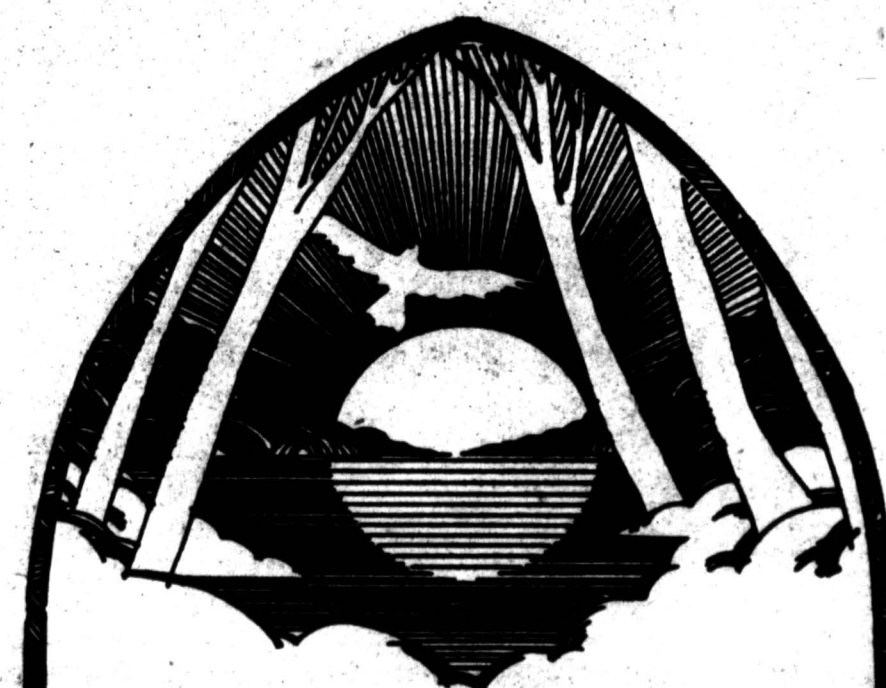

By Myles Williams

Turning 80 was no big deal to ourspoken actress Katherine Hepburn, who told an interviewer why she let the milestone birthday go by without a celebration. "Who cares about my birthday? I don't, as long as I can get around and think straight." She also expressed great ambition: "There are 20 million books I haven't read, 20 million walks I haven't taken, and 20 million parts I haven't played."

Don't be too quick to say "senility" if an older person experiences confusion or forgetfulness. While such symptoms may indicate the onset of a serious disorder, they also might arise from temporary conditions according to the National Institute on Aging. These include a high fever, poor nutrition, adverse medication reactions and depression. The confusion passes when these conditions are successfully treated.

Remember When? 1948—"A Streetcar Named Desire" won the Pulitzer Prize as best play of the year.

Frawley Becker takes annual Festival of Firsts writing award

FRAWLEY BECKER, playwright from the Los Angeles area, has won the 13th annual Festival of Firsts Playwriting Competition sponsored by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

His winning script is entitled 411 Joseph, and concerns the lives of a Jewish family who gather at 411 Joseph in Rochester, N.Y. The play is a touching, often comic look at family relationships over a long period of time.

Becker, who lives in West Hollywood, has a varied background in the theater arts. He was educated at the University of Pennsylvania (B.A., psychology) and received his B.F.A. in Theater Design from Oxford University.

Becker has directed and produced in Paris, France, and has worked as a dialogue coach there. Among the well-known performers he has worked with are Audrey Hepburn, Omar Sharif, Peter O'Toole, Gene Wilder, Rex Harrison, Jacqueline Bisset and Cliff Robertson.

He has also been location manager in the film industry working on such films as Footloose, Suspect, Steel Magnolias, Air America, and others.

His first screenplay was given a staged reading at Paramount Pictures last year. He has also had several short stories published in literary quarterlies.

During the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles, Becker was the French interpreter for gymnastics and for the Olympic Arts Festival just prior to the Games.

411 Joseph, Frawley Becker's first full-length play, will be performed at the Sunset Theater on September 20, 21 and 22 at 8 p.m. Peter DeBono will direct the prize-winning play. Tickets are $5 and can be purchased at the Sunset Center director's office, San Carlos and Eighth in Carmel or at Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey.

In conjunction with the Festival of Firsts, staged readings of runner-up plays will also be done. These include The Slight Setback of Sherlock Holmes directed by Jim Sully on Saturday, Sept. 8 in the Sunset Theater beginning at 8 p.m.; Sex, Drugs & Apple Pie directed by Kathy Deskin-Jacobs on Sunday, Sept. 9 in Carpenter Hall at Sunset Center, 8 p.m.; Nothing Spared: The Barrymores directed by Jim Jensen on Saturday, Sept. 15 in the Scout House, Eighth and Mission in Carmel at noon; and Crimes at the Old Brewery directed by Chuck Thurman on Sunday, Sept. 16 at the Outdoor Forest Theater, Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel beginning at noon. There is no admission charge for attendance at the readings.

For further information call the Sunset Center office, 624-3996.

FRAWLEY BECKER, a West Hollywood playwright, won the 13th annual Festival of First Playwriting Competition for his work, 411 Joseph.

Women artists take center stage at the Evans Gallery

"WAVE LENGTH," an exhibit of watercolors by Sam Colburn, and a collection of recent collages by Mabel Landaker are the featured exhibits opening Thursday, Sept. 6 in the galleries of the Carmel Art Association.

A reception for the artists is set 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 8. The galleries are located on Dolores Street between Fifth and Sixth avenues in downtown Carmel, and admission is free.

Mabel Landaker, a resident of the Monterey Peninsula since 1946, has Painted primarily in oils until recently when she turned to collage as an exciting and creative medium.

Her work is represented in private collections throughout the country.

On the side of his house is a sign saying, "Sam Colburn Artist and Gaffer." The latter obsession is the oldest as he started swinging clubs at a little white ball at age 18, while his brushwork began in 1937 when he moved to Carmel. Although he did not paint until then, he had much experience in Life Drawing at Chouinard's school of art in Los Angeles, and in drawing in classes given at Long Beach in the Adult Education program.

He is now an honorary life member of the Carmel Art Association having been accepted in 1940, and, his show will consist of his latest work. He has had one-man shows in New York, Aspen, Tucson, Virginia City and Elko-Nevada, Monterey, Pacific Grove, and, of course, Carmel. He did a series of panels for what used to be the Pilot Market, but is now Brunos, in Carmel. In one of his watercolors hung in his exhibit in Elko he had attempted a haystack. A local rancher said, "Hell, if anybody piled a stack of hay like that up here, we'd hang him."

He does a lot of drawing, and has covered the Crosby and what is now the AT&T. If you go into the County Courthouse on Aguajito Road, you will see his "Net Menders" done on tile.

At age 45 he married Grace Meredith. She was already the mother of two children, Teryl and Women artists take center stage at Evans

THE 100th anniversary of the National Association of Women Artists, Inc. is celebrated with a month-long exhibition in the Marjorie Evans Gallery at Sunset Center, Carmel.

For more than a century this group has dedicated itself to sponsoring selectively juried exhibitions of members' work in order to expand public awareness and appreciation of their outstanding contributions to the arts.

The National Association of Women Artists was organized in 1889 when opportunities were non-existent for women artists to exhibit their work or acquire professional status. The organization has grown to a membership of about 700 professional painters, sculptors and printmakers from 42 states.

The works of its members may be found in permanent museums, corporations and private art collections. The oldest and largest women's professional art association in the United States, it has pioneered in the organization of traveling exhibitions of its members' works that have been shown in museums, universities and important art centers in our country and many others throughout the eastern and western hemispheres.

The current exhibition has been jury selected and varies in both artist concept and print-making techniques. Many experimental methods are represented in relief and intaglio printing, serigraphy, lithography and monoprints.

This exhibit will be on view through Sept. 28 at the Marjorie Evans Gallery located at Eighth and San Carlos, Carmel.

The gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and closed on weekends. There is no admission charge.

CAROL S. Fitzsimonds produced the linocut, "Thistle, Bindweed and Rush." It is part of the exhibit of works by members of the National Association of Women Artists, Inc., which can be viewed throughout September in the Marjorie Evans Gallery at Sunset Center, Carmel. Admission is free.

Jazz Festival signs more stars

THE ROSTER of artists scheduled to perform at the 33rd annual Monterey Jazz Festival has expanded to include Spyro Gyra featuring Jay Beckenstein, Stan Getz and Etta James. The announcement was made by James L. Lyons, founder and general manager of the Monterey Jazz Festival.

These artists will join Dizzy Gillespie, Oscar Peterson, Stanley Turrentine, Michel Petrucciani, Joe Williams, Dianne Reeves, Ernestine Anderson, Pancho Sanchez Latin Band, Tito Puente, Mel Brown Sextet, Gerald Wilson Band, Christopher Hollyday Trio, Katie Webster, Charlie Musselwhite, Jiggs Whigham, Donald Bailey, Red Holloway, John Lee Hooker and others in performances slated for Sept. 21 - 23, at the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

This will be the first appearance for Spyro Gyra featuring Jay Beckenstein at the Monterey Jazz Festival. The group was named the top jazz group of the '80's by Billboard Magazine and played to rave reviews at the 1988 Playboy Jazz Festival.

Grammy award-winner Stan Getz, who is an artist in residence at Stanford's Jazz Department (which he founded in 1983), was named to the Downbeat Magazine Hall of Fame in 1986. This year, Getz won the "Bird" award, Europe's most prestigious jazz award.

Etta James, with more than 20 hit singles listed on Billboard's pop charts during her career, returns to the Monterey Jazz Festival stage where she has electrified the crowd in many appearances on the Saturday afternoon Blues Show.

MCI Telecommunications will again be the exclusive sponsor of the Monterey Jazz Festival, continuing a relationship begun in 1985.

"We take great pride in the fact that MCI represents the best quality in the communication field," commented Howard Crane, president of MCI's Pacific Division. "Likewise, we take great pride in our ongoing relationship with the Monterey Jazz Festival, which represents the best in jazz," Crane said. The Festival's Jimmy Lyons added, "It's a pleasure to have quality name like MCI - and MCI's people - associated with the Monterey Jazz Festival."

Season tickets to the 33rd Annual Monterey Jazz Festival are still available at $100.50 per seat for all five shows. Prospective season ticket holders are advised to order their seats as soon as possible, as well as making early hotel or motel reservations.

Seats may be ordered by calling the Monterey Jazz Festival directly at 373-3366 or by writing Box JAZZ, Monterey, CA 93940.

The Monterey Jazz Festival is the oldest, continuous jazz festival in the world. It is a non-profit organization responsible for over $1 million in donations to music education and the creation of a jazz education program throughout Monterey County.

Viet Nam focus of discussions

GRACE SEVY, author of the 1989 book, The American Experience in Vietnam, A Reader, will lead seven reading and discussion sessions focusing on different aspects of the Vietnam War.

Titled "Talking About Vietnam," this program is funded through the National Endowment for the Arts Humanities and the efforts of the Peninsula Library System. It will begin at 7 p.m. Oct. 2 in the community room of the Seaside Branch Library at 550 Harcourt Ave. in Seaside and continue on Oct. 16, Oct. 30, Nov. 13, Nov. 27, Dec. 11 and conclude on Dec. 18.

Each session will explore a different aspect of the war: personal experiences of soldiers and civilians, historical overviews, military strategy, ethics, the Vietnamese perspective, the protest movement, and the healing necessary after such a controversial war.

Sessions and materials are provided free-of-charge. Pre-registration is required because space is limited to 25. Materials for the first session will be handed out at the time of registration and then for subsequent sessions materials will be distributed two weeks prior to the session.

Participants will read or view materials before the session. At the session, Sevy will give the readings or films a broad humanities perspective and then participants will join in group discussion led by Dr. Sevy.

Sevy is a free-lance teacher of writing and critical thinking, who regularly teaches courses on the American experience in Vietnam at Stanford and the Urban School of San Francisco. She has done extensive research in the area of political psychology and recent American history and she holds a Ph.D. in the History of Consciousness from the University of California-Santa Cruz.

Her book, The American Experience, A Reader, will be the focus of two of the seven sessions.

Contact Rosy Brewer at 899-2537 for registration and more information.

Singer/songwriter performs

SINGER/SONGWRITER Susan Udell brought her guitar to San Francisco in 1988 and has been performing steadily around the Bay Area ever since. Blending folk and country elements, her original songs talk about love, loneliness and other universal themes.

She will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 1 in Portofino Cafe. The cafe is located downstairs in the Pacific Grove Plaza, 620 Light-house Ave., Pacific Grove. Admission is $5. For reservations, call 373-7379.

(Comes the critic.)

So it is with composer/lyricist Stephen Sondheim's Sunday in the Park with George, (the neo-impressionist/pointillist painter Georges Seurat,) the two-act musical entertainment presently being performed at Monterey Peninsula College's main stage under the inspired direction of Tom McKenzie; the book by James Lapine.

The first act of this opus opened, sans a second act, in a 1983 workshop production nearly a year before the full version was performed in New York, (later to win both the 1985 Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics Circle Award.)

Here, however, "the hammer man" missed his cue, for excepting the act-two opener, "It's Hot Up Here," and the touching "Children and Art," (even the act-two finale is but a reprise of the first-acts,) the second act causes one to suffer, and both numbers could nicely have been incorporated into the preceding act to create a dynamic extended one-act production. (A Chorus Line was and managed to eke out a modest success as the box office record breaker of all time.)

Celebrating the century since the 1884 commencement of Seurat's monolithic masterpiece, "A Sunday Afternoon on the Island of La Grande Jatte," (depicting an island of the Seine frequented on holiday by members of all classes of contemporary Parisian society, the nearly seven by 10-foot work was completed and first exhibited in the eighth and final showing of the Impressionists in 1886, the revolutionary canvas composed of literally thousands of dots of pure color which, when mixed in the beholder's eye, creates a startling, if static, composition.)

The first act of Sunday... is a fictionalized dramatization of what little is known of Seurat's brief (1859-1891) existence of but 31 years.

In the second act, we follow his great-grandson, also George, and also an artist, (both hereinafter referred to as Geo. I and Geo. II), a full century later (1984), as he exemplifies the contemporary artist-entrepreneur, the antithesis of his antecedent's asceticism by attempting to pander and peddle his collaborative efforts (he sees himself as a sculptor/inventor) via the cocktail circuit and media hype. (Bravo! Geo. I; Boo! Geo. II.)

The present offering, a splendid collaboration in itself of the members of the MPC Drama Department, is superior to Sondheim. It is a visual feast of the scenic designer's art, (here brilliantly mounted and illuminated by Dennis Howes,) the costumer's craft (kudos to constantly capable Constance Gamiere,) with "movement" faultlessly orchestrated by Terry Barto, all lovingly composed, blended and folded by Director McKenzie into a chromatic composition of whipped cream, a veritable cream puff, indeed, worthy of the Parisian baker Louis who herein relieves Geo. I of his former model/mistress Dot, who has a bun in the oven of her own (another of Geo. I's creations.)

Mention also must be made of the skill and complexity of manipulation required to accomplish the lighting effects and scene changes in this technical killer of a production: roses to Michelle Taft at the lighting console and stage manager Harriett Catania for valor above and beyond etc., etc.

Not a lot of plot here to get in the way, and the tunes (if Sondheim can be termed a tune-smith) never topped the charts, but the characters, all "drawn" from Seurat's memorable masterpiece, will live in your mind's eye as vividly as do the images they embody in the original canvas which hangs today in the Art Institute of Chicago, thanks to the professional quality of the uniformly excellent cast.

As Geo. I/Geo. II, Carl Palme is splendid both in vocal and acting performance. A most thankless role(s), (neither Geo. I or Geo. II learn, grow or change in their respective acts, and even when Geo. I dies, he has to do it offstage during the intermission.) Palme accepts the challenge and succeeds in filling the creative envelope that Sondheim constantly strains at stretching to the point of bursting, both vocally on stage and instrumentally in the pit.

Laura Akard herein removes all doubt that she can do it all. Within the span of a year she has charmed us when cast as a young boy (Christopher Robin in Winnie-the-Pooh), stolen our heart as Dot (Geo. I's model/mistress/mother of his child) and broken our heart as Marie (the 98-year-old Act II daughter of Geo. I and Dot, and grandmother of Geo. II.) Her range and versatility, in stage performance, song and dance, proves nothing short of astonishing, and, in this production, her poignant Act II number "Children and Art," absolutely steals the show. To give you an idea of the level of performance herein exhibited by Akard, I barely remembered the number from the professional televised version starring Bernadette Peters, and I saw it twice. Rest assured that I shall recall Akard's rendition.

All cast members are deserving of praise, but constraints of space must limit raves to mere mentions: in the major supporting roles of Jules and Yvonne veterans John Newkirk and Elaine Davis are nothing short of superb, striking just the right notes in counterpoint to Geo. I and Dot. Other peninsula performance veterans, all excellent, include; Nancy Kocher, Connie Erickson, Vincente J. Salazar, Lynda Hearn, John Farmanesh, Kevin Hanstick and, portraying three roles with captivating comedic charm, the delightful Renata Yundi.

To the remaining 11 cast members in the splendid ensemble I can only give my thanks for creating so many memorable moments. You were a credit to your craft.

The 12-piece pit orchestra, under the baton of Music Director Barney Hulse, is simply the best heard to date on the peninsula. Compelled to constantly contend with aberrant key and time signatures, and tonalities that varied from melodic to cacophony, Hulse accomplishes with balance and precision the near impossible — he makes Sondheim at least accessible, if not always palatable. If there are other conductors on the peninsula fit to wield Hulse's baton in a musical pit, I haven't heard them.

I had fully intended to write an extended paragraph herein, scathingly eviscerating Sondheim for his hypocrisy and self-indulgence in penning the terminally long second-act scene wherein he seems to decry collaboration, hype and profit in the contemporary artistic process, my stinging rebuke based upon the fact that Sondheim himself freely chooses to compete in one of the most collaborative and media-hyped of all artforms, the American Musical Theater, and furthermore has been identified paying frequent and enviable visits to his VersaTeller machine apparently, all the while, draining the lees from a flagon of sour grapes.

But, what the Hell, since he'll never read it, I won't write it.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Beautiful finds

THE NEW SEASON'S crispness already flits like bright secrets kept by able-bodied trees. Labor Day Weekend seems but a door opening onto excitements of a significantly higher tuning.

Vocalist Madeline Eastman (great favorite hereabouts) shares in this surge. She'll be hitting Monterey Bay Club on Wednesday night (9/5) with her first feature album and a knockout backup band. This unit includes that most autumnal amongst trumpet players — Tom Harrell. Introspection, radiance. The Search. Beautiful finds.

Tom's on her package from Mad-Kat Records, of course. He has contributed brilliantly to Phil Woods' albums and studio sessions under his own leadership (with players like Ray Drummond, Bob Berg, John Scofield, Danish pianist Niels Lan Doky). Completing the local lineup next week: Mark Levine (piano), Vince Lateano (drums), Jeff Chambers (bass). You'll recall that Vince and Mark worked together for the late Cal Tjader. Real pros here. Recommended without qualification. Door charge of $5 per.

Madeline credits Billie Holiday with having inspired the Eastman career. "As a teenager, I heard Lady on record — a group of standards. Her 'simple' singing had a powerful effect on me. I hadn't known it was possible to be touched that way by music."

And: "Doing jazz vocals challenges both the intellect and spirit. One must use intelligence, think on one's feet, connect with emotions. It's a complete art form and complete experience. Because of Billie and this completeness — that's why I do what I do."

Why does her album appear right now rather than last year or next? "Beats me. This's the time. An essential part of me has something to say. I felt ready. There's this about jazz — the longer one does it, the more one has to say."

Madeline and Vince were married in the springtime at Berkeley's Maybeck Recital Hall by a jazz-loving priest. "Yes, we work together a lot. I like our life very much — going to the gig, working the gig, coming back home. We talk about the music. Vince knows me and how jazz grabs me on a personal level. I respect the heck out of him as a musician. He's a realistic sounding board. I can't imagine being with someone who didn't understand the music. I have a great husband."

The future? "I've got stuff lined up in New York. Vince may go — I hope so. With this album as a calling card, I'll try for the national scene."

Terry Hanck and his Soulrockers will play Monterey Bay Club over the Labor Day Weekend (8/31-9/2). Others: Don Pendergrass (9/3), Jack and Ed Show (8/30 and 9/4), Smith and Gail Dobson (9/6).

Not too far away: San Lorenzo Park. Kuumbwa Jazz Center of Santa Cruz offers a free concert there on Sunday afternoon (9/2) in celebration of the room's 15th birth anniversary. Music by East-bound, vocalist Ann Whittington's group, Pacific Rhythm. Call 1-427-2227 if you wish directions.

The Kuumbwa show on Friday night (8/31) features Claudia Villa with the band Alma Brasileira. Just $5 per. Tickets at the door only.

That tremendously popular Paul Masson Summer Series continues with two special afternoon concerts Sunday and Monday (9/2-3) — Carmen McRae and George Shearing onstage together. Start time: two o'clock. Historic winery site in the hills above Saratoga. Ticket info via 1-741-5181.

Concord Records will be taping George and Mel Torme at Paul Masson evening concerts (9/1-3). These annual get-togethers normally are sold out far in advance. The two previous Shearing/Torme albums won Grammys.

TALENT MANAGER Tup Lohse makes known an out-of-town jazz series organized by her and involving some local players. Miss Lohse says the run starts Saturday night (9/1) and will happen at Giovanni's in Concord. (The bar and restaurant's specific location — East and Colfax).

Each show carries a $7 cover and 8:30-midnight slot. The lineup brings forth vocalist Scotty Wright (9/1), flutist Kenny Stahl's quartet (9/8), The Cortet of multiple reedman John Cortes (9/15), guitarist Larry Scala's unit (9/22), vocalist Kitty Margolis (9/29), Evidence (Monk's music — (10/6), Ed Kelly Trio (10/13), trumpeter Mike Vax and friends (10/20), quartet fronted by saxist Noel Jewkes (10/27), singer Sherry Roberson (11/3), vibist Bill Jackson's quartet (11/10), The Cortet (11/17), Kenny Stahl Trio with guitarist Mimi Fox (11/24), Scotty Wright (12/1).

Tup says local jazz photographer Will Wallace will be represented throughout the series by an exhibit. (Will's current show at Pacific Grove Art Center shares much striking work in color — full review next time.)

EVER SINCE strong vocalist Patty Peterson did that Monterey one-nighter, readers have expressed interest in the Twin Cities jazz family. Here, then — Peterson albums released by Celebration Records of Minneapolis.

Jeanne Arland Peterson — CB5004. Patty's pianist mother on CD and tape. Standards plus swinging originals.

Triplicity — CB5012. Jeanne on LP and tape. Originals and tunes by such as Herbie Hancock and the Gershwins.

Threshold of Surrender — CB5010. Bassist/writer brother Billy Peterson on LP. All originals from his pen. Good group.

Too Late To Leave Early — CB5015. Vocalist Linda Peterson composes too and works quite a bit in Europe. LP and tape. Hip, tuneful, searching. Stuart Paster of the Celebration label says Linda will have a new CD out this autumn — recorded live at Copenhagen's Club Monmartre.

And we can't forget The More I See You — CB 5020. Patty on CD and tape. She works with time the way fine sculptors use clay. And it all fits. Quite simply the most refreshing jazz singer I've heard in years.

SIGHT BITES: Corky Corkum of Carmel won KRML Radio's grand prize in the Concord Jazz Festival promotion. Free hotel and tickets all weekend long. Corky's a retired man and lifelong jazz buff.

— Ace Hill Trio plays the Monterey Plaza Hotel Sunday Series (9/2). Noon till four on the lower terrace. No cover; no minimum.

— KUSP-FM programs this Sunday Night Special (9/2): New Orleans singer Johnny Adams along with Nappy Brown. The Ray Charles version of Nappy's The Right Time sold a million units.

The next Afropop Worldwide show contains Freetown street music plus highlife tunes from Ghana and Nigeria. Monday night (9/3) at nine o'clock.

— Antoine's of Capitola spotlights live blues piano nightly.

— I used to hear and chat with pianist/songwriter Bonnie Hayes at the cellar club underneath Larry Blake's Restaurant in Berkeley. Back then, she worked with a talented jazz vocalist who blew it in

Jazz Festival posters shown

"All That Jazz," an exhibition of Monterey Jazz Festival posters, can be viewed at the Monterey Airport Gallery in celebration of the 33rd birthday of the world-famous jazz festival.

The show, assembled from posters in local private collections, features the work of artists and designers who each year have interpreted and heralded the event in their own way.

Among these are Earl Newman's 1974 silk-screened saxophone player, Eldon Dedini's 1964 "Dizzy for President" poster, and Batista Moon Studios' color photo posters for 1980, 1982 and '84.

The show is presented by the Art-at-the-Airport program in cooperation with Colton Hall Museum, the Monterey City Cultural Arts Commission and the Monterey Jazz Festival. The show continues through Oct. 28. Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The Cave Dwellers

Playwright William Saroyan called this work, "a tribute to love and life." In this dramatic comedy, the "cave" is an empty theater which is about to be demolished to make way for a housing development. Its "dwellers" are a group of poverty-stricken people who feel they have a right to this last refuge because they had once known better days as entertainers.

The Western Stage presents The Cave Dwellers in its Studio Theater.

Curtain for The Cave Dwellers is at 8 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 30. Single tickets are $8.50 to $10. For reservations, call 375-2111 or 649-5561.

Hartnell College is at 156 Homestead Ave. (off West Alisal Street), Salinas.

In 'Cuckoo's Nest'

THE CAST of the GroveMont Theater staging of One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest includes, from left, Jeanne Wooster as Candy Starr, Dwight "D.J." Jones as Alde Turkle and Holly Goodwin as Sandra. For reservations, call Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561. The theater is located on Lighthouse at Hoffman in New Monterey.
